Credit checks now not-that-easy

Amendments to the Consumer Reporting Act mean that consumers can no longer have their credit ratings checked without being told about it.

Passed in the provincial legislature June 29th, the changes constitute written confirmation from the lending institution to the person(s) whom which the credit check is being issued.

According to the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations, Toronto; Ontario is the first province to require such changes.

In the original act, persons applying to a lending institution did not have to be notified until credit was actually granted.

Credit bureaus keep files on anyone who applies for any form of credit, such as loans and credit cards. This information is available to businesses, banks and credit card companies. The Ministry hopes that the new amendments will effectively stop businesses from using credit bureau files to target consumers for marketing campaigns.

Rose Vaudry, 67, and Oure Vaudry, 79, of Pembroke, Ontario, died instantly when the car they were passengers in crossed the centre line and collided with an oncoming southbound vehicle driven by Clayton Daniels of Foxboro. The accident occurred July 26, at approximately 1:30 p.m., on Hwy. 62 at Moira Lake, on wet roads and in heavy rain. Clayton Daniels, 67, his passenger Phyllis Pomeroy, 64, of Picton, and Isadore Vaudry were listed in serious condition.

Cdn. Parks & Wilderness Society addresses "Trust Park" controversy

A letter addressed to myself the editor of the Madoc Review from the Canadian Parks & Wilderness Society was received last week. It reads:

On July 12 at Northbrook a very large crowd of people attended a public meeting at which all speakers from the stage made many untrue and misleading statements to the audience about our discussion paper to create a Madawaska Highlands Regional Trust.

By the time the presentations from the stage were over and the crowd had been whipped up to a near state of fear and hysteria, one of our local members from Shaboneka Lake became the focus of protest by a fearful crowd. By the time he spoke, the tone of the crowd was such that there was no hope of carrying out a reasonable discussion.

The audience had no way of knowing that many of claims were false and reacted accordingly. Misinformation and rumour were generated by every speaker from the stage. Misleading the public with scary statements and attacking the discussion paper served very well to deliver a blow below the belt while the other fellow was not looking. Well done.

The evidence suggests that misleading the public was indeed the purpose of the meeting. The audience was not

Boy swims Lake

Mazinaw Lake, Cloyne; is 8 miles long and at it's widest point measures 2 1/2 miles. On Sunday, July 10th, 14 year old Graeme Morton, 14, of Toronto entered Mazinaw Lake at Pinecrest Villa and 45 minutes later exited at the cottage belonging to his grandfather Bruce Morton.

He was escorted by his father and grandfather during the journey which covered 7/8th's of a mile. To eliminate possible fatigue Graeme incorporated various swimming styles including the backstroke, the dog-paddle and floating.

For his superb victory Graeme was treated to cookies and was presented a home-made trophy.

A valiant victory, congratulations Graeme!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Trade Deal

"we might be dragged"

I noted in Mr. Vankoughnets column that over a million jobs were created in our riding in 1984, that's 3 times the number projected in the TRADE DEAL, for which we are prepared to give the country away. Given that the MP's figures are screwed up, it still points out the lunacy of using this kind of statistic to measure our economic well being.

If the M.N.R. hires 10 students to plant trees for 3 weeks, does that represent 10 jobs created? If so why do we not see 10 jobs lost when the 3 weeks are up, while these type of jobs are needed for environmental reasons etc. they do not take the place of permanent jobs where workers are paid a decent wage on an ongoing basis.

As for the Mulroney Regan Trade deal the 350,000 projected jobs were based on the erroneous assumption that the service sector would be protected which it is not.

When the Economic Council of Canada made those conclusions fully 83 to 90% of the 350,000 jobs would have been in the service sector.

Many other studies which this government chose to ignore, such as that by the Province of Quebec suggested that the number of losers would outnumber the winners by eight to one.

Over all it is not so much the job loss's that disturb me as much as the loss of Canadian Sovereignty, that we might be dragged into the U.S. cutting of social programs like Universal Medicare, in favour of "everything must make a profit," except the burgeoning military, and to hell with the environment (Trees cause acid rain) syndrome.

Unlike the government minister responsible for the trade deal, I have read it, and am not all reassured.

Sgt. Rick Deering, a resident of Madoc, along with 12 other fellow officers from the Belleville OPP detachment, will voluntarily participate in a province-wide torch relay which makes it's way through Belleville August 10th. Rick's route will be established the day of the run. Anyone wishing to sponsor Rick can do so by calling him at 473-4877. Please help support the mentally handicapped.

Paul Grenier (l) of Oshawa was the winner of the recent Walleye Tournament held on Stoco Lake. His winning fish weighed in at 13.3 pounds. Bill Sproule of The Maintainers, Stoco, and co-ordinator of the tournament, presents Paul with his first place prize of a Mariner Outboard motor. All participants are to be congratulated.

Local boy has cancer

Ricky is 10 years old, lives in Marmora, and has cancer. It's not important to know his last name; all that is important is for you to know the inevitable ending attributed with cancer.

Help make Ricky's dreams come true. The Toronto Dominion Bank in Marmora has opened up an account for any donations and donation jars are visible in nearly every store in Marmora.

The Mador Review located at 74 Durham St. South, will also be forwarding any donations received, to 'Ricky's Dream Fund'.

To help raise additional donations for Ricky's Dream Fund a Variety Show is being held at the Lion's Centre in Marmora, August 7th, starting at 1:30 p.m. The show will feature The Mundell's and South Bound Express. Donations will only be accepted at the door.

Thank-you to all who lend a word, a hand, and a heart!

Ontario Provincial Police officers and other law enforcement officers from across the province are supporting Special Olympics by running in a series of torch relays culminating in the lighting of the official cauldron at the opening ceremonies of the Special Olympics in Hamilton, Ontario, on Friday, August 12, at 7:30 p.m.

Special Olympics International is the world's largest program of sports training and competition for children and adults with mental retardation.

Officers, from most of the 180 OPP detachments across Ontario, will run over 2,000 miles while carrying ceremonial torches on eight routes that crisscross the province.

The support of local area residents, schools, service clubs, business and municipal leaders is needed to raise funds for Special Olympics on behalf of a participating officer, who then runs in the individual or group's name.

In 1987, the Ontario Association of Chiefs of Police instituted a Torch Run Relay for the benefit of Ontario Special Olympics athletes. The program started in 1981 by the Wichita, Kansas, police department as a way to involve local law enforcement personnel with the community and with Special Olympics.

This year's runs through Ontario start at different locations and dates but are timed to finish together in Hamilton.

News Quicks

Final preparations for the commencement of the bus service from Madoc to Belleville have currently been put on hold. George Frantz, one of the co-ordinators for the project says he is hoping the delay can be rectified as soon as possible.

Madoc Village council extends an invitation for tenders interested in tearing down the old water tower and using it for scrap metal.

The 12th annual Madoc Fast Pitch Tournament will be held August 5th to the 7th with most of the games being held at the Madoc Ball Park.

Council put off giving their final decision regarding the request of raising the price of one way cab fares within Madoc Village to $3. At the monthly meeting cab owners Mike Quinn and Robert Taylor proposed the increase but maintain that the rate per mile will remain the same.

As of July 26th, there will be no smoking during the Village of Madoc council meetings as per a vote held by council as the result of a motion moved by Creighton Harrop.

A public meeting will be held by the Village of Madoc August 2nd at 7 p.m. in order to select an individual who will sit as a member of the Waste Management Public Participation Committee. The Ministry of the Environment is currently trying to decide where a new dump site for our area will be located.

WE SAY NO TO ABORTION

It's time for the facts to be known...

MYTH: Abortion is basically a private matter.
FACT: Not really. Abortion involves not just a woman and her doctor. Even more directly and intimately involved is a third human being: the mother's unborn child, the doctor's unborn patient. And what about the father? Should he not have a say in the fate of his offspring?

Abortion also has broad consequences for the whole of society. How can one reasonably pretend, for instance, that the large-scale killing of innocent, defenceless, unborn human beings through abortion does not contribute to the creation of a psychological climate favorable to the development of all these other forms of violence which are a characteristic trait of our times?

MYTH: Every woman should have the right to control her own body.
FACT: Yes, but only her body, not that of her child who, while developing inside her body, is completely distinct from it, the only organic link between the two being the umbilical cord. Any remaining doubts about the separate identity of the pregnant woman and her child have been put to rest with the advent of the in-vitro fertilization procedures, in which the earliest stages of the new life take place outside the mother's body, and of amniocentesis, a procedure which tests for various anomalies of the developing baby - not of the mother.

William Oshersky, 16th Edition 1980, a standard obstetrics textbook in medical schools throughout North America, states: "Happily, we have entered an era in which the fetus can be rightfully considered and treated as our second patient... Who would have dreamed, even a few years ago, that we could serve the fetus as a physician?"

Any person's rights are limited by the rights of others. A woman's proclaimed right to control her own body does not include the right to have her unborn child killed by abortion. This child has just as much a right to life as any other human being.

There are no circumstances, other than abortion, in which a person is allowed to kill an innocent, defenceless human being. This and privilege enjoyed by abortion is unwarranted and totally unacceptable.

MYTH: Abortions are performed to preserve the mental health of the mother.
FACT: There are no studies to substantiate this claim. On the contrary, abortion is a well-documented stressful event, and it has been shown that abortion is commonly followed by serious psychiatric disorders, including depression and psychosis.

MYTH: Abortions help prevent suicides.
FACT: The stress of abortion has been associated with an increased risk of suicide. Conversely, no evidence exists that a continued unwanted pregnancy will endanger the mother's mental health.

MYTH: Legal abortions are safe.
FACT: The fact that a licensed physician performs the abortion does not guarantee safety; no abortion is without very real and serious risks to the physical and emotional health of a woman.

Early complications, such as perforation of the uterus, hemorrhage and infection occur in 2% of hospital abortions. The long term problems include infertility, cervical incompetence leading to premature labour and delivery, and increased risk of premature labour in subsequent pregnancies.

Unfortunately, there has been a medically indefensible conspiracy of silence about the risks attending legal abortions.

MYTH: Abortion is legal; so it cannot be all that bad.
FACT: Legality cannot change reality and the reality is that "The induction or procuring of abortion involves the destruction of life. It is a violation both of the moral law and of the Criminal Code of Canada, except where there is justification for its performance. The only justification is that the continuance of pregnancy would imperil the life of the mother." (Code of Ethics - the Canadian Medical Association, 1983)

Even though the CMA has since changed its views on abortion and the implications of recent Supreme Court rulings which have removed abortion from the realm of criminal law, abortion remains what it has always been: The killing of an unborn human being.

If child abuse were made legal tomorrow, would it be right? Abortion is the ultimate child abuse.

MYTH: Anyway, the fetus is not really a person.
FACT: Words such as "embryo" or "fetus" serve the same purpose as calling human beings "infants", "children", "adolescents" or "adults" at other stages of their lives: they are simply scientific terms used to indicate where a person is in his or her development; in no way do they mean that the unborn child is not human.

The promoters of abortion claim that the unborn child is a mere clump of cells. But the scientific facts are that a living, unmistakably human organism exists from the moment the ovum is fertilized; it will develop into a cat, or a plant - only a human being because it is already a human being.

Just 9 weeks after conception, all internal organs of the unborn child are present, including functioning heart, kidneys and liver; the nervous system and brain are also functioning and the child reacts to touch or painful stimuli. Furthermore, the unborn child, while still in the womb can now be viewed by ultrasound and have many of its functions monitored by various sophisticated techniques; he or she can receive blood transfusions and medications and even be treated surgically. Abortion brings that young life to an end.

An editorial in the September 1970 issue of California Medicine, the official publication of the California Medical Association, mentions "The scientific fact, which everyone really knows, that human life begins at conception and is continuous, whether intra- or extra-uterine, until death." And in Neurology's Scientific Encyclopedia, Fifth Edition, one can read: "From a purely scientific standpoint, there is no question but that abortion represents the destruction of human life."

It is not a sad reflection on our times that precisely when scientific and technological advances provide us with the means to keep unborn children alive at an ever earlier stage of pregnancy, more and more of these children are being killed by abortion.

MYTH: Abortion helps prevent child abuse.
FACT: 80% of children battered by their parents were wanted and come from planned pregnancies. Actually, studies have shown that many children who are abused after birth were totally very much wanted, but for the wrong reasons.

It is interesting to note that the two provinces (Ontario and British Columbia) with the highest rates of abortion are also the provinces with the highest rates of child abuse.

MYTH: Every child is wanted child.
FACT: This slogan is not as loving as it sounds. As it reduces children to objects with a right to exist only if someone "wants" them more than other things. It also fails to take into account the fact that the feelings of a woman towards her pregnancy often differ markedly during the early months of the pregnancy from what they will be at a later stage of the pregnancy or after the birth of her child.

On the other hand, while there are parents who do not want children, there are really no unwanted children; witness the countless and often desperate couples who have to wait years and at times spend thousands of dollars before they can adopt a child.

Lastly, human life has an intrinsic value which has nothing to do with the fact that the bearer of that life may or may not be wanted. Accepting the principle that the "undesirables" can be eliminated is most dangerous; for if every child is to be wanted, our society might very well one day come to think and decide that every grandfather and every handicapped individual should also be wanted.

MYTH: Abortions cannot be mistaken since they are performed by doctors.

FACT: Medical ethics since the time of Hippocrates have upheld the traditional role of doctors as preservers of life.

The Hippocratic Oath states clearly: "I will give no deadly medicine to anyone, if asked, nor suggest any such counsel; furthermore, I will give to a woman the instrument to produce an abortion." And the Declaration of Geneva, a modernized version of the Hippocratic Oath adopted by the medical associations in 1948, states specifically: "I will maintain the utmost respect for human life from the time of conception."

A growing number of doctors feel it is their duty to speak out against the "new" ethic of killing many of our unborn children and encouraging serious consequences to their mothers.

Madoc OPP Report as of August 2, 1988

Theft of ATV

Steven Dunning of Thomasburg reports having his 1984 Honda Three-Wheel All Terrain Vehicle stolen during the week of July 15-22, 1988. The vehicle had been stored in a shed on his property at L18 C4 Huntingdon Township. PC William Terc is the investigating officer.

Charges Laid

Madoc OPP have charged a resident of Tweed with two counts of theft and one count of possession of stolen property.

The charges stem from an incident on the weekend of June 18-19, 1988, in the Village of Tweed where four Unirolyf trucks were removed from Ministry of Natural Resources trucks parked in Tweed. Also removed that weekend, was a tailgate from a 12 ton pickup truck parked at Tweed Motor Car Sales.

Police have charged Stephen Roy Winfrey of Jameson Street, Tweed. Winfrey appeared in Belleville Provincial Court on July 28, 1988. The tires and tailgate were recovered by police.

Fatal Motor Vehicle Accident

On Tuesday, July 26, 1988, at 1:30 p.m., two persons were killed as a result of a two-vehicle motor vehicle accident on Highway 62, 2.3 km south of the Village of Madoc.

Rose Vaudry, age 67, and Orore Vaudry, age 79, died instantly when the car they were passengers in crossed the centre line of Highway 62 into the southbound lane and was struck by a southbound vehicle.

The driver of the northbound vehicle, Isidore Vaudry, L18 C3, Stafford Township, Pembroke, Ont., DOB July 29, 1916, drove his vehicle into the path of southbound vehicle driven by Clayton R. Daniels, 89 Main Street, Foxboro, Ont. DOB Feb. 1, 1921.

Isidore Vaudry, Daniels and a passenger in the Daniels vehicle, Phyllis Pomeroy, RR 3, Pictou, Ont. DOB March 18, 1924, are in Belleville General Hospital and listed in serious condition.

The accident occurred on wet roads and in heavy rain.

Run for Special Olympics

Staff Sgt. Richard Deering of Belleville District OPP Headquarters and a resident of Madoc is representing the OPP in the upcoming special relay.

Anyone wishing to sponsor Sgt. Deering is asked to call 473-4234. Proceeds of the run will go towards supporting the Special Olympic Program.

Crime Stoppers

Once inside the compound, the thieves again used the bolt cutters to remove padlocks from the storage compartments of six hydro trucks which were parked there.

The culprits removed four gas powered drills which were made by Tanka and are orange in color; three Husqvarna Model 44 chainsaws, green in color; two rolls of stranded copper wire and a set of bolt cutters. They then removed a 1987 Suzuki four-wheel drive ATV (all terrain vehicle), as well as a small utility trailer from the back of a pickup truck, which was also parked in the yard.

Everything was loaded into the trailer and onto the ATV and the culprits fled the scene.

The trailer was found abandoned in a field just south of the office and it appears that the ATV, as well as the other missing items were loaded onto a truck or trailer by using boards and ropes.

The ATV is described as being orange in color with a black seat and when stolen had attached to it, Ontario Licence Plat 571KN. Serial numbers and other identification numbers for the ATV as well as the saws and drills are on file at the Madoc OPP Detachment.

The value of the property which was stolen is approximately $8700.

Crime Stoppers offers a cash reward up to $1000 for information leading to an arrest in this crime or any other unsolved case. If you have any information, call Crime Stoppers at 969-8477 or 1-800-267-4357. Callers will not be required to reveal their identity nor testify in court.

Quinte Crime Stoppers, in co-operation with Madoc OPP, are requesting your assistance with solving a theft from the Ontario Hydro lot which is located on Highway 37, approximately three kilometers north of the Village of Tweed.

On Sunday, June 19th, 1988, between the hours of 3 and 10 p.m., the persons responsible used bolt cutters to cut through the fence at the west side of the compound. The office and the lot were unattended at this particular time.

LEASING WITH AN OPTION TO BUY

In last week's column I gave some preliminary material dealing with the common-law situation. Together we focused on the range, scope, and amount of inroads made by the live-in philosophy.

This week we want to examine the origin of the common-law concept.

Bishop Donald Bastian in his book, "Counterfeit", suggests five sources of the live-in mentality. First, the sexual revolution of the sixties rebelled against the longstanding tradition that sex belonged within the confines of marriage. As the sixties unfolded, the common-law situation blossomed. Second, some believe that the Second World War began the departure from sexual norms. Third, some contribute the slide of sexual morals to Darwin's theory of evolution. Darwin suggested that man was just a high-grade animal. Therefore, sex was simply satisfying a natural appetite without any moral consequences attached. Fourth, the eighteenth century flocked to Jean-Jacques Rousseau's idea that man was naturally good and that institutions were the corrupting influence in a man's life. Any situation, including marriage, was to be avoided. Fifth, the scientific revolution of the seventeenth century undermined the ideas of: a personal God, the universe having purpose, and the universe possessing a moral order. Science was all that was needed to explore the universe and to discover truth. God was shelved as an outdated concept along with the morality He instituted in our world.

There may be more factors than these that are mentioned. Of the five given, the last is the most detrimental. It gives rise to a wonderful freedom. Yet, it also gives rise to a new problem. In this world of new freedom and no God, what will be right and wrong? On what will we base our morality?

For centuries, men and women had based their morality on God and His laws. Now, God was gone and a new base for morality was needed. God's replacement became a person's feelings. No longer was it, "What does God say?" Instead, man's measuring stick for morality became, "How do I feel about this?"

Take the idea of a feeling-based morality: mix it with the general populace willingly buying into this notion and presto, you have every act imaginable and sanctioned as morally responsible, including common-law relationships.

From the scientific revolution came the idea of relativity. Simply said, it means nothing is always absolute. A short time later, came the idea that there are no absolutes. People who embrace this idea usually begin by saying, "Well it depends." If they start to lose ground in a discussion they will end by saying, "That's your opinion." They themselves become their own court of appeals.

How then did the phenomenon of living together unmarried originate?

People denied the moral order of God. People denied God Himself. People began to base their actions on how they felt. People denied absolute morality and colored outside the lines with a gray crayon.

Next week, we will look at why our social environment perpetuates the practice of living together unmarried?

reacting against the proposal but rather against the fearful and dreadful things announced from the stage. It would appear that representatives of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters were behind this sort of fear-mongering approach to generate emotional opposition so that rational thought soon flies out the window.

It takes a lot of information to overcome misinformation.

The Canadian Parks & Wilderness Society never envisioned holding mass public meetings such as the one at Northbrook, since they inevitably create more fog than light. At this early stage we plan small workshops through out the region to which interested people (who had read the proposal in advance) CPAWS residents from the general region of the proposed Trust would prepare the final proposal to the government of Ontario.

Why all this organized opposition based on false statements and misrepresentation? What is there to be afraid of? If people of the Madawaska Highlands or of Ontario do not want to back the creation of a Regional Trust then why should they get one? But - and it is a big but, THE TRUST PROPOSAL SHOULD BE DISCUSSED ON THE BASIS OF ITS MERITS AND NOT ON FALSELY GENERATED INFORMATION AND FEARFUL RUMOURS.

I want to refute the most erroneous of statements and rumours which spread like a plague from the Northbrook meeting. All are ludicrous and certainly a number of people at the meeting speaking from the stage knew it. These claims are inflammatory stuff. The kind of words that divide communities and people - and for no good reason.

FALSE: "A 4000 square kilometre WILDERNESS PARK is being proposed."

COMMENT: A 4000 square kilometre REGIONAL TRUST is being proposed. This includes PERMANENT PRIVATE LAND / PARKS DO NOT CONTAIN PRIVATE LAND. Crown Lands, and a management plan for the ENTIRE REGION (parts of 4 MNR Districts and parts of 5 Counties) which stresses multiple use BUT within a framework that takes ecological integrity of lands and waters far more seriously than at present. The aim is an effort to obtain long term protection for (the best parts of) this beautiful region so that people can continue to enjoy them forever into the future as today.

FALSE: "People would lose their properties."

COMMENT: WHERE is this proposed? Private property would be an integral (and legislated) part of the Trust concept. But, if any landowners wished, they could enter into a TRUST AGREEMENT to protect the ecological integrity of their valuable properties for the benefit of the landowners and possibly others.

FALSE: "The Canadian Parks & Wilderness Society has proposed to take over control of the region from the MNR."

COMMENT: We are flattered. Whoever started this rumour either had not read the proposal or was bent on discrediting it. We suggested a quasi-governmental Board (MNR plus local appointees) to take management responsibility on the assumption that local communities would have the greatest interest in protecting the beautiful region. The final proposal will have to identify the mechanism which will achieve LONG TERM PROTECTION for the region.

FALSE: "Hunting would be banned throughout the proposed Trust."

COMMENT: We said that hunting deer, grouse, hare and moose does not destroy the integrity of the natural ecosystem of the region and therefore proposed that hunting would continue as before, possibly under MNR supervision as noted in the proposal (page 30) but with changes in certain areas to recognize other values. Hunting, fishing and logging are not necessarily the most important things when we think about protecting the environment today. Conservation today MUST include deep concern AND ACTION to protect entire living ecosystems including the ecosphere. Concern for fish and game is not enough.

FALSE: "Fishing would be banned."

COMMENT: The opposite is true. ALL suggested changes to fish management would only

Energy Plus - DT Bootleggers

If excitement and energy say anything about a band, D.T. Bootleggers have both in abundance. Just talking to them about their music, you can feel the energy they put into it.

When on stage, they are so involved and excited about what they are doing, the audiences have no choice but to get excited and involved and just enjoy.

Thomas McLean (lead guitar and vocals) summed it all up by saying they love music, they love to entertain and we just want to party!

Thomas described their music as "southern rock and roll", "uptempo rock"; Don Corey (rhythm guitar and lead vocals) added a type of "bar room boogie".

The band, Thomas McLean, Don Corey, Jim McLean (drums and vocals), Dan Bisson (bass guitar and vocal), Al Bisson (keyboards and vocals), Wes Frederick (sound board), and "Newt" (set up and take down) make up the band, D.T. Bootleggers (all band members are from Campbellford).

They started out in January as a "basement band". Thomas and Jim (who previously played with Trax and Northern Lights), Jim, Thomas and Dan just jamming for fun.

They gradually moved onto private parties and the pay began. Dan joined in April and Al has just been added.

The band sees recording and a video in the future, hopefully, the near future, and they are working on some music all their own. Now their music runs from Chuck Barry to Van Halen.

So, for a fun-filled, exciting time, watch for the energetic band, D.T. Bootleggers (they are playing at the Riviera on August 5th and 6th).

Record number of polluters charged and convicted

The ministry initiated 54 prosecutions in 1984-85 and obtained 57 convictions.

The ministry laid charges against 330 companies and individuals this past fiscal year, compared to litigation against 266 defendants in 1986-87. In 1985-86, charges were laid against 149 companies and individuals.

Offenders are facing stiffer penalties. In March 1988, Imperial Oil was fined $108,000 following a large gasoline spill in Timmins.

Elmira Refiners Ltd. and its president were fined a total of $44,975 in March 1988, following complaints from nearby residents about strong odors over several months last year. The Paris, Ont., plant renders poultry waste products into materials used for the production of livestock feed.

A Toronto-based company, operating as S.A. Armstrong

Ltd. in Belleville, was fined $40,000 in April 1988, after four drums containing PCB material were found buried on the company property in 1986.

The total amount of fines imposed has risen from $785,700 in 1986-87 to $1,056,038 in 1987-88, an increase of 34 per cent. The average fine per case levied also rose this past year from $5,694 in 1986-87 to $6,212.

The number of convictions and prosecutions initiated for environmental offences in Ontario has more than doubled in the past two years, Environment Minister Jim Bradley announced recently.

"The substantial increase in charges and convictions should be a clear message to polluters that my ministry will crack down on offenders. Violations of environmental laws will not be tolerated," Mr. Bradley said.

The Ministry of the Environment initiated 211 prosecutions in the fiscal year, ending March 31, 1988, up from 179 cases in 1986-87 and 86 during the previous year. This represents a two-year increase of 145 per cent.

Harold Cheese Bantams begin playoffs

The Springbrook Harold Cheese Bantams played seven games throughout the month of July with a record of two wins, three losses and two ties.

These games included two against Wellington, which they lost 9-5 and tied 4-4 in Springbrook. They also tied Peterborough 7-7 and beat them 5-2. Madoc were also victims of Harold Cheese, as they defeated them 11-2.

The other two losses were against the Madoc men and MacMillians from Campbellford. The Madoc Men defeated Springbrook 7-5. Harold Cheese and MacMillians were tied 1-1 in the sixth inning when Harold Cheese made a number of errors and allowed them to score six runs to beat them 7-1.

On Wed., August 3rd, Harold Cheese Bantams have an exhibition game against Belleville and on Wed., Aug. 10th, they are scheduled to start OASA playdowns against Hastings. Both games are to start at 8:30 at Hawdon Recreation Centre in Springbrook.

Heating and cooling

Installation of one of the largest ground source heat pump systems in Ontario, began in June.

At St. Paul's high school in Trenton, a ground source heat pump system will supply most of the building's heating and cooling needs. A water loop inside the building will allow individual heat pumps for each classroom to heat or cool as required.

Based on the forecasted energy savings, the payback period is expected to be four and one half years.

Tweed to receive pride grant

The Honourable Hugh O'Neil, Minister of Tourism and Recreation and MPP for Quinte, announced recently a $200,000 grant to the Village of Tweed under the Program for Renewal, Improvement, Development and Economic revitalization (PRIDE).

Speaking on behalf of Municipal Affairs Minister John Eakins, Mr. O'Neil said the grant will be used for infrastructure improvement to facilitate housing intensification and infill.

The grant to Tweed is part of a total of $15 million to more than 70 municipalities across Ontario.

The PRIDE program provides assistance for projects in all older sections of a municipality, including residential, commercial, waterfront, industrial and mixed-use areas.

"PRIDE is designed to help municipalities create an improved environment for investment, to create jobs and strengthen municipal tax bases," said Mr. O'Neil.

Financial assistance is in the form of a grant covering 50 per cent of improvement and land acquisition costs for comprehensive community improvement projects.

Project components eligible for PRIDE funding include:

- building, improving or replacing social and recreational facilities, municipal services, utilities and parking facilities intended to serve the project area;
- esthetic improvements such as streetscape upgrading and landscaping;
- acquisition and clearance of land and buildings;
- relocation costs including moving costs and related compensation.

CHRISTINE NICHOLAS

Last Monday, July 25th, my daughter Sandra Radford and I visited Christine Nicholas at her home, where she greeted us with her sunny smile and made us feel right at home.

She is a cheerful, energetic person. Christine is also ambitious and is an accomplished singer who likes to sing Pops and Country. She would like to sing professionally, teach and give music lessons.

For now, she is busy training at Carleton University, two hours a day, six days a week, with her coach of four years, Scott Ogilvie. She prefers to run at night because she is more aware and the quality of the workout is better, she finds.

Christine has some busy months ahead of her. She will be racing for the Provincials on August 14th, and for the Nationals August 25-28th, in Vancouver. And, in September, she is heading for Ottawa to sing at her coach's wedding. Whew! Then, onto Seoul Korea.

Christine Nicholas and Debbie Van Huizen will be representing Canada at the Paralympics from October 9-26th.

"Well, I hope to come back with the gold and set a world record," said Christine.

DIET

"No real special diet, just common sense. Lots of fruits and veggies, not too much red meats, potatoes, and pasta. Don't eat junk foods anyway, so that poses no problem," said Christine.

When she was 14 years old in high school, she started running just for fun. That went on for a year and she became serious and better. She specialized in track events, then joined Canadian Blind Sports for seven years. In 1981, she ran for National in Calgary and received the gold.

Her longest term away from home was in Sweden in July 1987 for three weeks, where she won two bronzes in 1500 and 3000 metres, and she also took time out to visit friends and, soak up the atmosphere.

SEOUL KOREA: Oct. 9-26th

Not sure of how many countries, but Christine will be housed with Australian. Debbie will be staying in another building because of wheelchair accessibility.

Nancy Sparling is setting up a trust fund at the Royal Bank to receive any donations for Christine Nicholas, a blind runner, and Debbie Van Huizen, a wheelchair athlete, who will do their best as they compete in the Handicapped Olympics in Korea in October.

Christine and Debbie are willing to do their bits, doing workouts and hard training and we don't know what else. How about us doing our bits?

Wouldn't it be just great to be a part of it and help them to win the gold. All we have to do is make sure they get to Seoul Korea.

Well, what are we waiting for?

Thank you Christine. Sandra and I really enjoyed our visit with you.

WORKER'S COMPENSATION BOARD

ANNOUNCES NEW PLANS

The Workers' Compensation Board is planning to build a new rehabilitation centre within five years. But there are no plans, at the present time, to close a controversial rehabilitation centre in Downsview, near Toronto.

Board Chairman Robert Elgie announced the WCB's long-term rehabilitation strategy in March. The strategy, designed to help injured people re-enter the workforce is subject to further cost analysis and Ontario Government endorsement.

It involves the creation of 50 to 100 community clinics, a variety of regional medical centres and one comprehensive rehabilitation institute that would be linked to a major university.

Meanwhile, there are no plans to sell or close the 522-bed Downsview Centre, which has been the subject of many reviews by health professionals and underwent a policy investigation last year.

YOU ARE NOT ALONE

IMPOSSIBLE ZUCCHINI PIE

Coconut and pumpkin crustless pies are popular and so are the main ones like this, especially when zucchini and tomatoes are in season.

- 2 cups chopped zucchini
- 1 cup chopped tomatoes
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/3 cup grated cheese
- 1-1/2 cups milk
- 3 eggs
- 3/4 cup biscuit or baking mix
- 1/2 tsp salt
- 1/2 tsp pepper

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Sprinkle zucchini, tomatoes, onion and cheese over the bottom of a lightly greased pie plate. Beat milk, eggs, biscuit mix, salt and pepper until smooth. Pour over vegetables and bake until pie is firm, about 30 minutes.

(Green beans and mushrooms or crisp crumbled bacon and Swiss cheese are other good combinations.)

CHOCOLATE ZUCCHINI BREAD

- 3 cups all purpose flour
- 3 tbsp cocoa
- 2 tsp baking soda
- 2 tsp ground cinnamon
- 1/2 tsp salt
- 3 eggs

- 1 cup vegetable oil
- 2 cups grated zucchini
- 3 tsp vanilla
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 1/2 cup sesame seeds

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Grease two 8x4 inch loaf pans and set them aside. In a small bowl, blend flour, cocoa, soda, cinnamon and salt. Sift in a large bowl, mix together eggs, oil and sugar. Stir in zucchini and vanilla. Mix well.

Gradually add dry ingredients to batter, mixing well after each addition. Stir in nuts and seeds and combine well. Spoon into prepared pans and bake until golden and a tester inserted in the centre comes out clean, about 60 minutes. Makes 2 loafs.

Loyalist dairy at Hubble picnic

A "Loyalist Dairy of a Teenager" will be a special feature of the annual Hubble Picnic at Lion's Park, Campbellford on August 14 at 11 a.m.

Further details of this "Loyalist Dairy" by Dr. Russ Waller, U.E., are: retired professor from Queen's University, will be given on CJBQ on August 3 at 9:20 a.m. by Hubble descendants, Anne Rowe of Foxborough and Terry Moore of Havelock.

The Loyalist Dairy will be on the picnic program twice. It will come during the hymn singing and memorial from 11 a.m.-noon. It will also be part of the music programme for the evening. Paul Zerba of Oshawa will be the master of ceremonies.

United Empire Loyalist Heritage

Bernice Treleven, co-ordinator of the Hubble activities, is thrilled that Dr. Waller is doing the Loyalist heritage in this dramatic way. The Hubble family are descendants of Nehemiah Hubble a United Empire Loyalist, who came to Hubble Hill between Campbellford and Stirling in 1784. The Loyalist Dairy will represent a girl's life in 1784.

Hubble Historical Biennial Meeting

Every two years the Hubble relatives in the United States have a reunion which is attended by relatives from almost every state, including Hawaii. In 1987 eight Canadian Hubbles attended the four day affair. The Canadian Hubbles invited the Americans to hold their 1989 reunion in Kingston on July 12-15. The executive anticipates that Dr. Waller's drama will be part of that event.

Innovations

Many innovations will be part of the programme this year. Children can participate in the Teddy Bear Picnic. What an array of Cabbage Patch dolls this might be! The six to ten year olds can participate in the contest showing the Nehemiah Family tree. Many of the men and ladies can partake in horse shoe pitching. Hubble Hobbies will be on sale during the day and a final auction will be held at 4 p.m. For the first time the hand woven tapestry of the Hubble crest will be on sale.

As usual the Miss Hubble contest will involve teenagers who can trace her Hubble genealogy.

Cucumber Salad

Hints:

Hard time peeling and cutting turnips? Well, no more.

You can now buy turnips, peeled, cut and cubed, at your supermarkets. Great for the disabled and aged who have a hard time even holding it.

For a simple way to prepare one serving of Italian spaghetti try the following (306 calories per serving):

Spaghetti and Meat Sauce

3/4 teaspoon oil
3 ounces ground round steak
2 tablespoons chopped onion
3 oz. (3/4 cup) canned tomatoes
1/2 cup hot water
1 oz. raw high-protein spaghetti (about 1/4 cup broken)
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. chili powder
Heat oil in skillet and brown beef. Add onion when beef is almost browned. Continue until both are seared. Add tomatoes, hot water, spaghetti and seasonings. Cover tightly, and simmer 20 to 30 minutes. Serves 1. Try Cucumber Salad with it.

Cucumber Salad

3 small firm cucumbers
2 green peppers
2 medium firm tomatoes
1 tsp. poppy seeds
1 cup yogurt
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. paprika

Peel cucumbers only if skin is tough; Slice cucumbers and peppers, quarter or cube tomatoes. Place all vegetables in salad bowl. Blend yogurt with seasonings and mix into vegetables. Chill for at least 15 minutes before serving. Serves 6.

Top it off with this Cherry Freeze (only 48 calories per serving):

1 pkg. cherry diet gelatine
2 tbsp. skim milk powder
1/8-oz. can apricot nectar
1 cup water

Put all ingredients into electric blender or bowl and mix thoroughly. Pour into freezer tray and freeze until ice crystals form. Then take out, break pieces with wooden spoon in bowl and beat with rotary hand beater or electronic mixer until smooth. Return to tray, and freeze. Serve in sherbet glasses. Serves 4.

Chow! See you next week.

HIT MORE CONSISTENT MID-IRONS

It has always amazed me how the PGA Tour professionals hit the ball so purely with their mid-irons. When I had the opportunity to spend some time with three of the Tour's greatest players (Ben Crenshaw, Johnny Miller and Lee Trevino), I made a point of studying their setups and impact positions with the mid-irons. It was easy to pick out three things they all have in common: although they have very different swings.

First, they all paid attention to setting up with their hands ahead of the ball; this was a very conscious effort. Second, they only bruised the turf with these clubs. In other words, they made sure they hit the ball before the divot, which can only happen with the hands ahead of the clubhead at impact. As well, they applied backspin to the ball by hitting the turf after the ball.

The other thing that stood out was that they all made sure their heads didn't move during the follow-through until well after they hit the ball.

If you work on these three things, I guarantee you will achieve purer mid-iron shots, so remember: (1) hands ahead at address and impact, (2) hit the ball and then the divot (bruise the turf), and (3) keep your head behind until well after impact. Be patient with this and have fun watching the ball stop on a dime.

New magic
date for CSB

If you're a regular buyer of Canada Savings Bonds, you'll probably want to circle November 1.

That's the last day investors will be able to buy new CSBs for cash at face value.

If the new bonds are still on sale after November 1 - and there is a strong likelihood they won't be - investors will be required to pay accrued interest charges.

"For most CSB purchasers," says John Campbell, a director of the CSB Payroll Savings Plan Organization, "this will not be a problem."

"In fact," he added, "it could make things even easier."

The Rural Scene by Ken Yarrow

Everyone has it - nobody wants it - somebody must get rid of it. Who and how?

Usually, the municipality is ultimately responsible for the safe disposal of our household waste. The manner in which this is achieved is the critical point.

In the beginning, we simply found a secluded area, out of sight, and piled it there. Environment-minded persons saw the light and said "Hey, this is wrong. We are going to wind up with vermin and rodents, as well as a country-wide dump."

Then, municipalities assigned unused and otherwise unusable spots for a common dropping place. They turned out to be ideal places for target practise at rats.

Next, along came sites that were controlled, kept relatively rodent-free and were covered with fill on a controlled basis.

At the present time, a site must be found that is acceptable to the Ministry of the Environment, usually clay-bottom farmland - very scarce in our area, as we are fast finding out.

Once again, commendations must be given for progress and incentive. Landfill sites are not the ultimate answer; only another step in the ladder. This is the position being taken by the Hastings County Federation of Agriculture, as well as the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

Municipalities are not only faced with disposal problems, but a myriad of regulations regarding acceptable locations. Why? Well, first of all, garbage generates leachate and this leachate, in turn, pollutes our water supply.

It is a known fact that leachate can take as long as one hundred years to travel into a given water source, depending on distance and soil conditions. Secondly, for the aforementioned reason, the municipalities are faced with problems of getting insurance to cover this possibility, even on those sites accepted by the Ministry.

One can only conclude the insurance companies do not regard the regulations as infallible and to contain a high degree of risk. Nothing is infallible, but by the rates being quoted, one would think on a scale of one to ten, it is one.

I, personally, do not want to be one of those having to be singled out a number of years down the road as having done nothing to prevent pollution for the generations to follow - your children, my children and their descendants - do you?

We have progressed and with foresight can continue to do so. I certainly do not want to point the finger of guilt at anyone or make charges against anyone. It is definitely a big problem and one which we all must admit to.

There is no easy or cheap way out. Whatever method is to be used, let us be certain it is progressive, not adding to the problem already in existence.

There are other alternatives - separation, reclamation, and one I think a must to consider, incineration.

In the County of Hastings at the present time, a large area is looking for sites, possibly an amalgamation of south Hastings and a commitment from the Ontario government for long-term funding assistance.

Do we spend a given sum now and a further sum multiplied again on down the years to clean up the mess? Do we push to spend the larger sum now and be as safe as modern technology will let us be? We have progressed; let us continue to do so.

Meetings are scheduled in many areas in the future; plan to attend and beware of any attempt to gloss over the real repercussions of a cheap or stop-gap measure being taken.

The problem is real - it is now - let's deal with it accordingly.

It's Ours & It's New

Madoc's new flag is currently hanging on the walls inside our Village offices (above). Peter Hickey, an art teacher, is to be credited with the flag's design.

A location for the flag to be displayed by all to see, has not yet been decided. It's unable to be raised over our Village office because of hydro lines.

The Madoc Review spoke to a number of people who believed, according to an article (no picture) in last week's Community Press, that our new flag was cluttered and to be criticized. What do you think? Contrary to the Community Press, people contacted by this office, who have seen it, liked it, and believed it to be something to be proud of.

Bear Season

The Ministry of Natural Resources, Tweed, according to wildlife supervisor Gary Wright has investigated the appearance of bears and their path of destruction as close as the Village of Marlbank, on property owned by Vernie Davis. The bears killed some calves and pigs owned by Mr. Davis.

Lack of food crop this year is bringing the bears out into rural areas in search of food and the MNR is warning people to be on the lookout and not to leave garbage strewn about.

Ontario's Game and Fish Act reads that you can destroy any animal, other than deer, moose and caribou, in preservation of your property.

A real problem with the bears is expected when corn crops ripen sometime between the middle and end of August.

The Ministry, in an effort to control the destruction associated with bears, will steer hunters towards endangered properties when hunting season begins September 1st.

If confronted by a bear, backing away slowly without challenging the bear, is your wisest choice.

Brakes failed on this truck when descending on Madoc's four corners last Friday. Saving inevitable destruction the truck ended up on the sidewalk in front of Madoc's tourist booth. No injuries were sustained by the driver Eric Power, 29, of London, Ontario, and little damage to town property, which could have been worse, was recorded.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Abortion

Dear Editor:

Life begins at conception as Bill Vankoughnet MP said during the House of Commons debate on abortion and various news releases recently, indicates that he has taken a stand for Life itself as he has not taken during the past three Federal election campaigns that I participated in as your Independent Candidate.

My stand for Life has been consistent over the past three Federal and four Provincial elections. As has been suggested to me by various people regarding Mr. Vankoughnet's stand for Life, that a leopard never changes his spots, we wonder if Mr. Bill Vankoughnet MP will now give the Helpless Fetus legal standing under the law. If he does, he deserves my praise!

Sincerely,
Ross Baker

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Psychic skeptic

Dear Editor:

I read with a great deal of amusement and skepticism the article (which was tantamount to an endorsement) on the so-called High Tech Psychic Mieke Van Haagen.

- (1) - There is absolutely no scientific basis for Astrology, Numerology, and Biorhythms.
- (2) - There has never been a case of paranormal happenings, E.S.P., U.F.O. sightings and abductions etc., that has been properly investigated that has proved to be true.
- (3) - There is no truth in Palm Reading, Tarot Cards, Graphology, Phrenology, Iridology or Channelling.
- (4) - Regression by hypnosis to past lives is totally unproven.
- (5) - Why would Mieke be willing to hang around fall Fairs for $30 or $5 a shot when World leaders, Generals and Industrialists who need to know future trends - "What to pursue and what not to pursue" - would pay her millions? A fortune teller with a computer is still a fortune teller.
- (6) - As a member of the Committee for the Scientific Investigation of Claims of the Paranormal, I would like to set up a series of tests of Mieke's abilities under controlled conditions with members of our group.

Yours truly,
A Skeptic

Search parties are continuing their efforts to recapture a Wallaby that went free when, it is believed, some kids visiting Philoxia left a door open. No page keeping the exotic

by Janice Pinke

The old footbridge down at the Moira Lake resort area, which connects the tiny island of cottages to the mainland is about 50 years old.

In a carbon copy letter received by Huntingdon Township Council from the Ministry of Natural Resources to John Williams, one of 7 cottage owners on the island, K. Green from the Ministry states that Regional Engineering of Kemptville have inspected the site and are concerned with it's poor condition.

The bridge is approximately 50 years old and according to the Navigable Waters Protection Act it "is occupying Crown lake bed without authority". Apparently when the bridge was constructed, the owners at that time never received proper approval such as permits or licences. Continuing the letter states that therefore it is necessary to obtain tenure to the site in the form of a Licence of Occupation.

In the letter a referral is made to the fact that John Williams has already indicated that reconstruction of the footbridge is planned for this year upon approval from the Lakes and Rivers Improvement Act. Funds for the reconstruction of the bridge would have to come from the property owners on the island.

Prerequisites to the issuance of a Licence of Occupation

I thought it was only London bridges that fell down; that's what the song says. Wrong! The Ministry of Natural Resources is (also) concerned regarding the condition of this footbridge located in the Moira Lake resort area.

include: approval or a declaration of exemption from Transport Canada pursuant to the Navigable Waters Protection Act, comments from the Municipality and preparation of a Crown land plan of survey of the water lot.

If and when Transport Canada approves construction of a new footbridge, the island owners will then be eligible for a licence which is guaranteed for 25 years. With the licence is an annual rental fee which is based on the size of the site which cannot be determined until a survey of the water lot has been completed.

Where he be, Wallaby?

Yep. Someone left the door to his cage open and he was gone.

According to Philoxia's owner, Lilah Chickalo, the Wallaby was last sighted north of Tweed and as far away as Nanapan. People are beginning to see Wallaby's.

A Wallaby is brightly coloured animal resembling a Kangaroo only smaller in size. It is most commonly found in Australia. Philoxia purchased the Wallaby from the Toronto Zoo.

GIVE

Lilah wants to find the Wallaby. If you locate or capture the Wallaby, Philoxia can be reached by dialing 478-6070. The animal should be found unharmed. If sighted the animal should be herded into an enclosure and fed water until someone from Philoxia arrives. Search parties have been organized since the Wallaby disappeared two weeks ago. All sightings have been followed up but have proven unsuccessful.

105th ZOO

Three years ago Philoxia became Canada's 105th zoo. It is renowned for its most unique and natural animal havens and bird sanctuary. Admission is free and the children will enjoy seeing, for maybe their first time, lamas, camels, wallabies and Japanese deer.

Lilah and his wife are both vegetarians. Also offered at Philoxia are vegetarian vacations. Along with the zoo, they have bed and breakfast facilities and a private beach.

Philoxia has its own master bakeress who has become well respected for her old world breads. All food is cooked over a wood fired, brick oven bakery.

Suffering from allergies due to this hot weather, me, your editor, was told by Lilah that a change in my diet could correct this. Philoxia offers private consultations, by appointment only, which are relative to health, life, disease, natural cures, diet, preventive medicine and a wholesome weight loss program.

Also, during the summer months a massage therapist is available.

A gypsy band plays in Philoxia on the weekends and there is a dance floor for anyone wishing to explore the gypsy in them. Philoxia can also facilitate weddings and seminars.

Closing in September and opening June 15th, bring the family out and enjoy hospitable service along with lots of things to see. It's open 7 days a week from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Despite warnings posted by the Centre Hastings and Prince Edward Medical Unit that Stoco Lake is polluted and not fit for swimming, some people chose to beat the heat anyway and ignore those hot signs.

by Janice Pinke

Madoc waters safe but...

Waters deemed by the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Medical Unit as polluted are unwise to swim in that's why the warning signs are posted according to Glen Hudgin, director of public health inspection, Belleville. Commenting on the fact that in spite of the warning signs posted in Tweed, people have been seen swimming Glen says "people do treat it (the warning signs) to lightly". Moira Lake and Crowe River are checked by the Medical Unit in the Madoc area. Recent samples taken have come back acceptable and as a result no warning signs have been posted.

Eye, ear, nose, throat and intestinal infections can all be acquired swimming in polluted water. Loss of hearing and especially in young children, permanent organ damage can occur.

So in order to beat the heat, if you are planning on taking a dip in water that has warning signs posted, remember you are doing it at your own risk.

California "Cuties" in Springbrook

On Tuesday, August 16th at the Springbrook Ball Park the "California Cuties" will humour, dazzle, excite and entertain their audience. This team of men are all natural athletes and comedians who dress up in wild women's outfits to enhance the show and softball game.

FiFi the Flirt, Leaping Lena, Hedda Hooker, Hefty Helen and Madam Hilda will present a way of playing softball, like it has never been played before. Headlining the show, as he has done since organizing the barnstorming Cuties in 1946, is Trino Palacios, in the guise of Madam Hilda. Forty-one years on the road may seem like a long time but Madam Hilda continues to improve with age and it is her that keeps the comedy rolling. They have entertained audiences in Japan, Canada and various cities in the United States. Last season the Cuties won 111 games and lost only nine.

Come out and be entertained by these Cuties. Experience a new way of playing softball, while these characters keep you on the edge of your seat waiting in anticipation for the next areobatic pitch, funny comment or any other crazy thing that they come up with. The slogan of the Cuties, "Those who watch the Cuties play, live to laugh another day," has proven its merit over the years.

The show starts at 8:00 p.m. Ticket prizes are Adult $4.00 and children 6-14 years $2.00. There will be a $20.00 prize drawn on the advance tickets sold. Don't miss the most entertaining softball game of the year. The Cuties will play against Springbrook's Stars of the Past.

For more information please contact Ron Andrews at 395-3686.

Religion in Life

Pastor Aaron Patriquin, Madoc Wesleyan & Free Methodist Church

Last week, we considered where the idea of living together materialized. This week, we want to examine why our social environment perpetuates the practice of living together.

Bishop Donald Bastian lists six catalysts in our society that help to perpetuate common-law relationships.

First, there is an anti-institutional mentality in our society. We mentioned previously that this idea of anti-institutionalism came from the eighteenth-century philosopher, Rousseau. The concept generally stated is that people are good and institutions corrupt good people. Practically worked out, people begin to feel rebellious against the state for wanting to licence and register their marriages; the church for asking for a covenant before God; and the family for wanting a traditional wedding.

Second, our society is widely committed to the pursuit of pleasure. We are a pleasure-centred society. Increasingly, pleasure is become the end-all in life. Pleasure seekers are not looking to a marriage relationship for pleasure; they are looking to a live-in situation or a one-night stand.

Third, pervading our culture, is the idea that modern marriage is in a poor state. One look at the divorce figures is enough to scare anyone away who is considering marriage.

Yet, the answer does not rest in living together and then getting married. Studies have shown that there is a higher divorce rate among former common-law couples. A return to a traditional marriage scenario governed by the laws of God is needed for stable and permanent marriages.

Fourth, urban life and greater mobility allows a person to become lost in a crowd. Living in or visiting a city where few people know you is a large factor in moral looseness. Alone and anonymous, a person with even good moral fiber can fall prey to sexual indiscretion.

Fifth, from puberty to when it is economically feasible to marry, is a long time. In a sensate culture like ours, a young person experiences tremendous sexual temptation. Add to our culture's sensateness, mobility, affluence, loosening family ties, and the moral slackness of our times, and you have the recipe for TNT.

Sixth, is a general loss of religious faith. With a strong faith in a moral God a Christian can stem the tide of our culture. Without a strong faith in God, people have little resistance to sexual temptation. Perhaps, the onslaught of common-law relationships is, in part, due to a weakening national faith in God.

Next week, we will look at the affects of common-law living upon the practitioners.

MP Vankoughnet speaks out on abortion

Ottawa - Bill Vankoughnet, MP for Hastings, Frontenac, Lennox and Addington, during the House of Commons Debates recently, stated his reasons for opposing Government motion concerning abortion.

Mr. Vankoughnet is quoted as follows: "Mr. Speaker, I welcome the opportunity to speak on this important issue of abortion. The motion put forward is totally unacceptable to me and I believe the vast number of people I have the honor of representing in Hastings, Frontenac, Lennox, and Addington.

The right to speak on important issues in this House is very fundamental to our system of government and our very way of life as Canadians. I intend to speak very briefly only to put on record my position on this important moral issue.

We have heard a great deal about free votes in the House of Commons. I question this term, as it is applied here, because I believe the only free vote here or anywhere else is one by secret ballot. Hopefully, however, this debate will put on the record the views of Members in this Parliament and will influence legislation that will be brought forward.

The gestational approach is scientifically and ethically indefensible because it draws an arbitrary-dividing line between life which is worthy of protection and life which is not.

As one who believes that life begins at conception and must be valued, I cannot support the motion before the House. This motion abandons a primary function of the law, the protection of the human life.

Furthermore, it does not achieve the socially imperative balance between the rights and the interests of women and the equally important rights and interests of unborn children.

As one who values innocent human life, I feel it is incumbent that I work and pray for legislation which recognizes, values, respects, and protects human life from conception to natural death.

Any new abortion law must be developed in the context of other laws and social policies which, together, will make Canadian society even more hospitable to all human life at all stages of development.

As my amendment pursuant to the special order under notices of amendments to Government business No. 36 states, any legislation must give pre-eminence to the protection of the foetus, should prohibit the performance of an abortion except when two independent qualified practitioners have, in good faith and on reasonable grounds, stated that in their opinion the continuation of the pregnancy would or would be likely to endanger the life of the pregnant woman, or when the pregnancy is the result of rape or incest.

I believe very strongly that the foetus is life at conception and must be protected." end of quote.

Mr. Vankoughnet stated that his amendment was disallowed by the Speaker of the House, but that he will continue to press the government for legislation that protects and values innocent human life.

Excavation of the old railway corridor has been completed by Huntingdon Township, on eastern view of Moira Lake for passing motorists and tourists. Plans to landscape the Hwy. 62 at Moira Lake which opens up the area are in the planning stages.

Pre-natal classes begin at Health Unit

From the day you find out you are pregnant, to the moment you give birth, the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit is there to give you help.

If expectant parents have the knowledge and understanding of pregnancy, labor and delivery and infant care, they are more likely to have healthier babies, a more satisfying birth experience and confidence in their new roles as parents.

The Health Unit offers a comprehensive prenatal education program. Not only do they teach the whole birth process and infant care, they also teach the psychoprophylactic method of childbirth - teaching the relaxation and breathing techniques to assist the mother during labor and delivery.

Both couples, as well as single expectant parents are welcome to attend the classes. For those who wish prenatal information but are not able to come to the classes, the public health nurses will make home visits to do prenatal teaching. The home visit includes the same kind of teaching as the prenatal classes.

Prenatal classes are popular so you should register as early as possible in your pregnancy. Prenatal classes offered by the Health Unit are two hours long and are held weekly for seven weeks during evening hours. A wide range of topics is covered, including:

Madawaska Trust Park The Debate Continues...

The Honourable Tom McMillan
Minister of Environment
House of Commons

Dear Mr. McMillan:

Further to my conversation with your assistant, Ms. Jennifer Rideout, I am writing to you concerning an independent association calling themselves the Canadian Parks and Wilderness Society.

This environmentalist group has approached the provincial government proposing the establishment of a park involving approximately one million acres in the area of the Madawaska Highlands, located in Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, Renfrew and Lanark.

This proposal is concerned with managing and protecting the integrity of the natural environment, restricting, and in many designated areas, eliminating, hunting, trapping and logging.

This has caused considerable concern among a great number of my constituents who are against this proposal and a general meeting has been called for July 12, with a turnout of 1,000 people expected.

Ms. Rideout has assured me that the federal government has not been approached by this group and does not support such a park. As many of my constituents have been led to believe that the federal government supports this proposal, I would appreciate receiving a letter clarifying the government's position on this matter which I could present at next week's meeting.

Your immediate attention to this matter would be appreciated.

Yours truly,
Bill Vankoughnet, MP

Tom's Reply

Dear Bill,

Thank you for your letter of July 5, requesting clarification of the federal government's position on the Canadian Parks and Wilderness Society's proposal to set up a Madawaska Highlands Regional Trust.

To obviate any possible confusion, I want to make it clear that the Canadian Parks and Wilderness Society is a non-profit, charitable organization and has no direct connection with Environment Canada's Canadian Parks Service, which is responsible for establishing and operating national parks.

Although I have not seen the report, as it was addressed to the Ontario Minister of Natural Resources, I understand that it calls for the creation of a type of regional land-use planning authority by the province of Ontario.

Consequently, it raises issues that are the exclusive responsibility of the provincial government.

I understand that the matter is seen by some people as a national park proposal. As Minister responsible for national parks in Canada, I can assure you that the federal government is not proposing a national park in that area.

The government's long-term objective is to represent each of Canada's natural regions in the national park system. The Madawaska Highlands are located in a region that is fully represented in the system by the existing Georgian Bay Islands, St. Lawrence Islands and La Mauricie national parks.

The Canadian Parks Service, therefore, has no immediate interest in establishing any additional national parks in the region.

I trust that the foregoing information sufficiently clarifies my department's position on the proposal.

All best wishes,
Yours sincerely,
Tom McMillan, PC, MP
Hillsborough
Minister of the Environment

 of the hospital maternity facil-expectant parents can become more familiar with the hospital and procedures.

 Classes are informal and group participation is encouraged. The important role of the expectant father as coach, partner and parent, is emphasized. Though the father attends classes, as well as the birth, as the labor coach, this is not always the case.
 A major part of the classes is devoted to relaxation and breathing techniques. The expectant mother works together with her partner who is acting as the coach, to practise various methods of relaxation and breathing.

Understanding why these techniques are important during the labor process, can also help deal with the common stresses of daily life by using the same techniques.
 It is felt that if a woman knows how to relax during labor and delivery, she will not tense up and waste energy unnecessarily. The breathing techniques help her to concentrate and relax.
 One of the most important roles of prenatal classes is peer support. When you discover someone who is having the same symptoms as you, you can compare notes and learn from each other.
 Listed below are tentative dates (dependent on registration) for prenatal classes in the interested in attending prenatal classes, please contact the Edward Counties Health Unit.

 Each new mother is offered the opportunity to have a visit, usually within a couple weeks of arriving home from the hospital with her infant.
 During the visit, mother as well as father, have the opportunity to discuss their concerns regarding infant care as well as postpartum needs.
 Issues which are frequently discussed include infant safety, postpartum expectations, immunization, breastfeeding and infant feeding, infant development, etc. Each visit depends on the needs of the new mother.

The Health Unit gets birth registrations from the hospital and contacts each new mother to offer a visit.

Employment equity awards by August 15

Occupational segregation; discriminatory recruitment and promotion policies; lack of training opportunities; the wage gap; these are some of the barriers to equity in the workplace. But astute and far-sighted organizations are removing these barriers, and are reaping the rewards.

This is the fifth year the Ontario Women's Directorate has sought to honor such leaders with an award. Nominations for the 1988 Employment Equity Awards are open until August 15. Anyone can nominate an organization that has taken steps to significantly improve the status of women in the workplace.

"Employment equity is everyone's business," said Gregory Sorbara, Minister Responsible for Women's Issues. "In the past four years, 16 awards have been given to employers and unions that have made a substantial contribution to the field of employment equity."

"This year, for the first time, community groups and associations are eligible for this honor in recognition of the important advocacy and support they can provide to advance equity in the workplace."

Last fall, Mr. Sorbara presented achievement medalions to DuPont Canada Ltd., The City of Ottawa, the Waterloo County Board of Education and a joint award to General Motors of Canada Ltd. and the Canadian Auto Workers.

Some of their achievements were: the joint GM/CAW outreach program intended to broaden female students' thinking about their career options; an ongoing, company-wide sexual assault prevention program conducted by DuPont; the Ottawa program that increased the number of women in senior management by 57% in four years; and the Waterloo Board's new hiring, promotion and compensation practices which resulted, in part, in the first-ever appointments of women in the positions of superintendent of schools and head custodian.

"These organizations understand that employment equity is good business; it's smart use of their most crucial asset—people. These organizations know that people are the key to productivity. Employees, employers and unions all realize the real rewards of employment equity," said Mr. Sorbara.

A panel of judges representing employers, unions and the community will review the 1988 nominations. The directorate would be particularly interested in hearing about programs which include initiatives for visible minority women, women with disabilities and native women.

Deadline for nominations is August 15. The awards dinner takes place November 23.

The Ontario Women's Directorate, established in 1983, is an advocacy agency working within the provincial government to achieve economic, legal and social equality for all Ontario women.

Nomination forms and further information on the awards are available by calling: (416) 597-4567.

Adopt-a-cop

Toronto - The "Adopt-A-Cop" fund-raising program for Special Olympics is up and running at Ontario Provincial Police detachments and other police forces across the province.

Special Olympics is an international program of physical fitness, sports training and athletic competition for children and adults with mental retardation.

"Last year, 1120 law enforcement runners ran over 550 miles and raised in excess of $100,000 for Special Olympics in Ontario. The total distance of this year's eight runs exceeds 2,000 miles," said S/Sgt. Bill Small, Special Olympics Law Enforcement Torch Run Co-ordinator for the OPP.

Each of the ceremonial Torch Runs begins in August at a different time and place. However, all eight runs finish together in Hamilton on August 12, for the official start of Special Olympics.

"The public can help the mentally retarded by pledging to support a local law enforcement officer. "Adopt-A-Cop" pledge forms are available from participating officers or from most OPP and local police department offices," said S/Sgt. Small.

GOLF TIP OF THE WEEK

by Dave Roberts
 Golf Professional, 1973-1987
 C.P.G.A.
 Past Executive Director
 Ontario P.G.A.

Our golf tip this week should help you shave a few strokes off your score. The "magic wand" or putter as it is more commonly referred to is a very personal part of your equipment. Once you find one that you like the looks and feel of stick with it and work on developing a consistent stroke.

I am going to share with you this week two helpful hints that should make it just a bit easier for you to sink those 3 and 4 footers that so often cause heartbreak and headache. One thing that most high handicap players and even some part shooters fail to do is to watch the roll of the ball after they hit it. What I mean is when you have a longer putt watch the roll of the ball so as to determine the break for your next putt. So often because we see the ball is not going to go in, we either close our eyes or think obsessions. Watch the direction or break of the ball in order to be able to approach the next putt with positive vibes as opposed to negative.

Many times we make the mistake of over borrowing or letting our minds convince us that there is a break on the green that in fact isn't there. If in doubt about a break on a short putt don't play any, instead square the face of the putter to the hole and hit the putt firmer than perhaps you may. Don't play a break, hit it straight in. Have fun, be confident and don't let these shorties scare you. Work on this simple bit of advice and you will lower your score.

Hydro upgrades

generating stations

Ontario Hydro is expanding its program to rehabilitate and upgrade its hydro-electric generating stations, Chairman and President Robert Franklin said recently.

The program will add almost 500,000 kilowatts of generating capacity to the province's power system by 2000.

"Thanks to the upgrading work we've done since 1974, we already have another 270,000 kilowatts of water-powered generation in place," said Franklin.

"This power, produced by what is the least expensive source of generation, helped us to meet the annual increases in electrical demand. By continuing our upgrading efforts over the next 10 to 15 years, we expect to add 200,000 kilowatts more."

In total, that's enough power to serve a city the size of London, Ontario.

To date, $24-million has been spent on upgrading of 50 hydro-electric generating units at various sites, and work is expected on 70 more units at 13 stations.

"Hydro currently owns and runs hydro-electric stations housing over 260 generating units. These units produce one-quarter of the annual electrical needs of this province," said Franklin. "Through this program we plan to get the absolute maximum out of these existing plants."

There are various methods available to upgrade the stations. Eugenia generating station, on the Beaver River south of Georgian Bay, has been operating since 1915. The original, 1000-metre pipeline that carries water to the turbines was replaced this year and will enable a third unit, which has been out of service almost 20 years, to return to service.

At R.H. Saunders generating station, on the St. Lawrence River near Cornwall, the angle of the runner blades is being changed to increase the output of the station.

In conjunction with the upgrading program, Hydro is continuing to overhaul and maintain hydro-electric units on a 25-year cycle to return them to "as-new" condition.

As well, a dam assessment program is underway. Started in 1986, this is a seven-year program to examine the condition of the 288 Hydro-owned and operated dams.

Hydro also plans to evaluate the condition and capabilities of 34 older hydro-electric stations which provide 20,000 kilowatts or less. It's expected the generating capacity of these stations can be increased by nearly 50 per cent over the next 20 years.

The standard image of Canadians as a nation of slightly pessimistic people who rarely wax enthusiastic about anything appears to be off base when it comes to matters of health. Ask us about it and we reply in no uncertain terms.

A Statistics Canada study did just that and found that more than 80 per cent of Canadians rate their health as good to excellent. And an even greater percentage, including people who experienced some health problems, reported they were satisfied with the state of their health.

Warkworth Golf Course news

There have been two Holes-in-One recently at the club.

On July 27, 13-year-old Sarah Hutchinson aced Hole No. 4, a Par 3, shooting 83 yards from the ladies tee. She used a seven iron and had her mother and grandfather as witnesses.

The following day, Elton Hutchinson got a hole-in-one on the same Par 3, shooting 142 yards with his nine iron.

Vic Taylor, a member of the club's executive, is the new editor of "The Divot", a newsletter for members and interested players.

In his first edition, Vic outlines some of the plans for improvements of the course and quotes some interesting financial statistics worthy of consideration. Copies are available at the Pro Shop.

 For the Federation of Ontario Naturalists

Last weekend I visited the Canadian Shield, in the heart of cottage country. This country is as different from the fertile, undulating lowlands of southern Ontario as the moon.

Both areas have been shaped by the glaciers that moved like giant potscrappers over the land. The south owes its fertility to the till left by melting glaciers.

On the shield, the glaciers scoured the granite, stripping it of all but a thin layer of soil. In the process, they pitted it with huge gouges which formed the lakes and bogs punctuating this wild country.

On this visit, which was part of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists' Membership Trips Program, we were inspecting life in two bogs. True bogs are very ancient, forming in pools of standing meltwater with little inflow to bring nutrients.

In this highly acidic environment decomposition is imperceptible so that the buildup of a spongy peat base is usually the work of thousands of years.

The first bog we visited, near the village of Rosseau, is an F.O.N. Nature Reserve. At first glance the bog looked forbidding. The edge was ringed with grasses and sedges and beyond were the skeletons of dead cedars which had not survived periods of high water.

Stepping onto the bog itself was disorienting. This was not terra firma; but a curious spongy material into which one on the move again

Ottawa - The Canadian Forces display trailers are on the move again.

Two newly refurbished, 45-foot highway trailers, modified as walk-through displays depicting many of the aspects of military life will be visiting regional fairs and expositions across Canada from May to October.

Visitors to the trailers this year, will see a variety of interesting displays and exhibits, ranging from scale models of military hardware to video programs about the NATO Airborne Early Warning Aircraft and Search and Rescue Operations.

Information is available about the three military colleges and other displays cover subjects such as the reserve component of the Canadian Forces, opportunities for youth available through cadet training programs, and the important part Canada's armed forces play in search and rescue operations.

One of the highlights of this year's new display package is a game which will encourage visitors to test their knowledge of the Canadian Forces by pitting themselves against a state-of-the-art computer.

Members of the Canadian Forces are proud of their tradition of service and professionalism. They are a unique part of Canadian society and the display trailers offer citizens of all ages the opportunity to learn about the forces' many varied activities and to share in this pride.

The trailer will be at the Campbellton Senior Fair from August 5 to 7, 1988.

Custodial duties

sank. In places, each footstep set the surface of the bog quivering like a dish of aspic.

The colors of the carpet of sphagnum were as exuberant as its texture - shades of green, yellow and scarlet.

On this apparently unreciprocating base grow some of our most beautiful and interesting plants. Plants like the pitcher plant supplement their meagre diet by luring insects into vase-like leaves streaked with scarlet. Once in, insects are doomed to drown, unable to climb up past down-pointing hairs.

The sphagnum was studded with the tiny glistening red pads of the sundew, more traps for unwary insects. Around the open water at the centre of the bog, horned bladderwort gleamed yellow in the sun, its insect-eating bladders hidden underground.

Here, on this unlikely medium, were blooming orchids like the grass pink and rose pogonia and the delicate white fringed orchis. Bogs are also the home of acid-loving members of the heath family like leatherleaf and bog laurel.

Tamarack, that bizarre conifer whose needles turn golden and drop in the late fall, thrives in boggy places. At this season, its young cones were still a rich burgundy.

Black spruce is also characteristic of these areas. In this forbidding environment even quite old trees were miniatures hardly as tall as a person.

Climbing out of the bog meant scrambling up onto the granite of the shield, pink with eruptions of feldspar and carpeted with mosses and lichens.

Under the hemlock beech and birch canopy the ground-cover was rich in color and variety. There were the shiny leaves of wintergreen and partridgeberry. The moss cover was threaded with beds-trail, trailing arbutus, Canada Mayflower and starflower.

Into this ancient and fragile environment we have come intent for the most part on our own pleasures without regard for the well-being of the soil and lakes and bogs which surround us.

Around these lakes of the shield, many cottagers have scraped away the thin soil and unique groundcover of the granite and replaced it with trucked-in fill and suburban lawns. Why bother to come north at all?

The bogs, so characteristic of this area, are threatened from time to time, by the spectre of peat mining. Peat mining which relies on drying, techniques and heavy harvesting equipment annihilates an entire ecosystem.

Recovery of an area like this would take many human lifetimes. The F.O.N.'s nature reserve ensures the survival of a small part of this habitat.

Cottage owner associations are increasingly concerned with the degradation and destruction of this delicate, shield landscape. As always, charity begins at home.

If every property owner could be persuaded to preserve the natural features of the land, instead of modifying lots with fill, grass seed and alien plant species, damage to the environment owing to development would be minimized.

On the weekends the call of the loon and the hermit thrush and the scent of fragrant white water lilies might assert themselves over the lawn spray and the power mower.

A sense of pride and appreciation are the feelings I get about Canadians, more and more. We are a nation that is recognized and respected on a world-wide scale. For instance, our involvement in the Apartheid situation, our input in the Gatt talks surrounding world-wide trade and the list could go on. One might think that our internal debate surrounding free trade with the USA could negate some of our credibility; in my mind, quite the contrary. It only shows that we are not prepared to blindly swallow anything that is put in front of us.

the outdoors and I would suggest you take jackets and lawnchairs.

As I said at first, pride in our many-faceted Canadian abilities, appreciation for those willing to share these talents with the rest of us, as well appreciation to those who take the time to organize and promote.

All too often, we look afar to the stars when indeed we are in the midst of them. I wonder how many remember the school book story "Golden Windows"?

In addition, many important facts are brought to light when all those affected discuss and debate the issues involved. I feel that this is the source of our independence and rightly so. It boils down to this: "It may be good, but you have to prove it first!"

It has been hot and, therefore, it makes the following even more meaningful. Thanks to my wife Eva's attention to what is taking place around the area, we have enjoyed two exceptionally entertaining evenings lately at a very low cost.

A week ago, Sunday night, it was the bandshell in Trenton. The show started at 6:30 p.m. and it featured the Haggertys of Huntingdon Township. Jim and Dianne Haggerty and the band put on one of the finest country music shows in the area.

The show lasted for two hours with no financial obligation except a freewill donation. Some others coming up in the near future are Over the Hills Jazz Band, Folk Festival and others.

On Saturday night past, we caught the performance of the military band from Central Command, Ottawa. This was at the downtown park in Peterborough. The band featured brass, as well as vocal accompaniment. The show here started at 7:30 p.m. Unfortunately we did not get a program and so can't say what's coming up.

Following the music, the festival of light, performed by power boats on the adjoining lake, took place. These boats outlined by lights in the shape of sailboats, did a water imitation of the musical ride and were very spectacular.

In addition, this performance was accompanied by fireworks. The effect was indeed a festival of light of many colors.

Bill C-72 discriminatory

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:

The recent passage of Bill C-72, the new Official Languages Act, will make English Canadians second-class citizens in their own country, especially when it comes to applying for jobs or promotions within the federal civil service.

In the past, government regulations have, in fact, insisted on francophone or French, when the qualifications called for "bilingual".

Those cowardly MPs, particularly the Tories from English Canada, who passed this bill have much to answer for. They have sold out their fellow English Canadians for a few votes (maybe) in Quebec and some pats on the back from liberal editorialists.

A Toronto lawyer, Ron Leitch, has written a brilliant expose of this discriminatory, some would even say "racist", piece of legislation. His booklet, Official Bilingualism: The Sell-out of English Canada, is published by Citizens for Foreign Aid Reform (Box 332, Rexdale, Ontario M9W 5L3) and costs $3. I obtained a copy from this organization.

The booklet also reveals the new and almost dictatorial powers of the Commissioner of Official Languages, yet another unelected bureaucrat with sweeping powers over Canadians. This is a most timely booklet for anyone concerned about the rapid erosion of the rights of English Canadians.

Dear Editor:

That the "greenhouse effect" is a global environmental crisis is well known. However, few Canadians are aware of just how hard this crisis will hit the Canadian economy and what profound effects it could have on our lifestyles.

The enclosed article, the July offering in the Probe Syndicate Series, examines what the greenhouse effect will really mean for us and proposes steps we can take now to mitigate the coming crisis.

Stand tall, keep cool

by Nigel Bunce and Jim Hunt
College of Physical Science
University of Guelph

Why did our primitive ancestors start walking upright? Since almost all animals, including primates, walk on all fours, scientists have always wondered why humans adopted this unique method of locomotion. Many different theories have been advanced over the years.

In a recent issue of the magazine "New Scientist" Pete Wheeler, a lecturer in physiology in Liverpool, England, reviews the various theories and finds them wanting.

He concludes that the principal evolutionary advantage to early humans (they are usually referred to as hominids) was to allow them to keep cool. It is generally accepted today that hominids first appeared on the grasslands of Africa, and so it is plausible that keeping cool in the tropical sun was an important aspect of our ancestors' adaptation to their environment.

Until 10 years ago, it was believed that hominids began walking upright in order to free their hands for tools and carrying things. This theory presupposed that the development of a large brain predated the change in posture, because only an animal with a large brain would have been able to carry out complex tasks like tool making.

This theory was upset by the discovery of the fossil skeleton "Lucy" in 1978. Lucy's bone structure indicated that she walked upright, but her skull was not large enough for a modern-sized brain.

Other theories include the suggestion that early humans stood upright to get a better view of the game animals they hunted. As Wheeler points out, however, the hunter needs only an occasional peek.

Alternatively, the habit of swinging about in trees might predispose an upright posture; yet modern tree-living primates walk on all fours when they are on the ground.

Wheeler speculates that upright posture was developed mainly to protect the early hominids from the heat of the tropical sun. In the tropics, the sun is almost overhead in the heat of the day. An animal standing upright exposes only the top of its head directly to the sun, absorbing less heat than an animal on all fours.

Better temperature control would allow early hominids to venture out when other animals had to seek the refuge of shade, and this would be an evolutionary advantage in seeking food.

To back up his theory, Wheeler notes that humans are unique in having little hair, but abundant sweat glands. Sweating is an especially efficient way of getting rid of excess heat.

Most animals are protected from direct sunlight by their insulating hairy coats. Sweat would not be practical because the sweat could not easily escape through the coat.

Fur-free humans, on the other hand, can sweat freely. Significantly, we humans retain the insulating hair on the tops of our heads, where direct exposure to the sun is inevitable.

An added bonus to the upright stance on the African grasslands is evaporation of sweat. At ground level, the grasses tend to stop the movement of air, and in fact, make the air moist as they lose water from the leaves. Simply by rising above the level of the grasses, the early hominids would have raised themselves above this humid zone, exposing themselves to the breeze.

Wheeler's self-consistent theory interrelates upright stance with the strategy of keeping cool through sweating, as opposed to insulating ourselves from the sun by means of a hairy coat. Whether he is correct or not is quite another matter.

We welcome questions and ideas for future columns. Write to the authors c/o the Dean's Office, College of Physical Science, University of Guelph, Guelph, Ont. N1G 2W1.

Greenhouse effect could hit Canada hard

by Philip Jessup

The worst drought in 50 years has parched Canada's prairies this summer, playing havoc with farmers' lives.

Droughts are generally considered to be acts of God, but the accumulated evidence surrounding this one has experts worrying that their worst fears about the 'greenhouse effect' may actually be coming to pass.

"The increasing frequency and severity of droughts," according to a leading government scientist, "may be a harbinger of future climate change."

Dr. Robert Stewart, chief of the soil and climate section of Agriculture Canada, points to mounting evidence that the world has entered a long warming period.

The global mean temperature, an average value meteorologists compute using data from around the world, has gone up nearly 1 Celsius degree over the past century, and five of the years in this decade have been the warmest in recorded history.

The culprits, he and other scientists suspect, are a handful of gases in the atmosphere that prevent the earth's heat from escaping to space. Carbon dioxide alone - from burning fossil fuels and from deforestation - may be responsible for half the problem, while most of the rest may come from a group of gases called chlorofluorocarbons (or CFCs) used in aerosol sprays, refrigerators and foams.

CFC gases, which also destroy the earth's ozone layer, are molecule for molecule the most potent cause of the greenhouse effect and the fastest growing - 12 times faster than carbon dioxide.

The United Nations Environmental Programme and the World Meteorological Organization consider the greenhouse problem so serious that last year they brought together 50 leading atmospheric experts from 15 countries, including Canada, to tackle this global problem.

The scientists' just-released report points to greater dangers than most governments had anticipated, warning of a temperature rise "larger than any experienced in human history", if the present growth of greenhouse gases continues.

Northern countries, like Canada, would be especially hard hit, they found, because frozen white expanses, which now reflect the sun's rays back to space, would instead soak up more solar energy as land and water are exposed by melting snow and ice.

Canada has responded to the threat by commissioning a series of in-depth studies which are finding - ominously - that prairie droughts are only one cause for concern:

* Maritime provinces would be vulnerable to the sea level rising by up to a metre due to melting ice and thermal expansion of the ocean. Charlottetown and Saint John would be flooded, with potential damage along the coasts totaling billions.

* Canada's forests would be the hardest hit, because of their greater vulnerability to the ravages of pests, diseases, and fires due to hotter, drier weather. Canada's multi-billion dollar lumber industry - not to mention protected wilderness areas - could be threatened.

* A warmer climate in Ontario could lead to crop failures for farmers costing $170 million a year. Lower water levels in the Great Lakes would dry up Ontario's shoreline marshes and disrupt shipping and hydropower.

* Quebec's ski resorts would see warmer temperatures cut the skiing season by as much as half, leading to adverse consequences for the province's large tourism industry.

* Canada's Arctic climate would change the most - a warming of 2.5 Celsius degrees has already occurred since 1750. Migratory mammals like caribou would starve as ice bridges melt, preventing them from foraging over large areas.

A warmer Canada wouldn't be all bad. Farming would improve in the northern latitudes, for example, and more water would be available for hydroelectricity in Quebec's James Bay region. But the recent U.N. report and Canada's own studies indicate that these benefits would be overwhelmed by enormous costs.

Because so much is at stake for us, Canada has decided to take a lead in convincing the world community to cut back on greenhouse gases. Last month, Environment Canada hosted a world conference on the greenhouse problem - the first sponsored by any country - as a step towards an international agreement limiting these air pollutants.

Ottawa views the conference as the initial international response to the findings of the recent U.N. report, which urged several worldwide government actions to limit greenhouse gas emissions:

* Major improvements in energy efficiency. Energy consumption, says the report, "could be reduced by 50 per cent with available technology" in industrialized countries.

* Deeper cuts than the 50 per cent reductions in CFC gases called for by an international agreement struck last fall in Montreal which Canada and other countries are expected to ratify.

* Development of energy systems that do not add to the greenhouse effect. The U.N. list includes not only wind, solar and hydroelectricity, but nuclear energy, as well.

* Strong measures to reduce the clearing and burning of forests around the world for agricultural use to the air each year.

* Controlling other greenhouse gases like methane and nitrous oxide, which come from agriculture, landfills and automobiles.

Although our federal government argued hard for these and other measures, Canada's credibility in getting drastic cutbacks from other nations in the future may be compromised by its own sorry record.

To meet the energy needs of a single average Canadian, our economy pours 10,000 pounds of carbon dioxide per year into the air. That's more than double what the average European and Japanese produces, making Canadians among the world's worst carbon polluters.

Canadians aren't planning to clean up their act either. Current trends indicate that each Canadian could consume almost 50 per cent more energy, annually, producing 15,000 pounds of carbon dioxide pollution each by 2005.

"The prairie drought may be a warning to us all," Dr. Stewart says ruefully, "but it remains to be seen whether we're determined and far-sighted enough to act on that warning."

Wesleyan Church celebration 20th conference

by Laura E. Smith

The Opening Hymn, "Hallelujah, What a Saviour" set the tone as church leaders and lay delegates met at Silver Lake to review the accomplishments of the past year and to project goals for the future of the Wesleyan Church in the Central Canada District.

This conference had the honour of being chaired by the first Canadian General Superintendent, newly-appointed at the general conference of the church in June, in the person of Rev. H.C. Wilson, native of Dartmouth, Nova Scotia. He was assisted by District Superintendent Rev. W.W. Jewell of Belleville, Ontario, who was elected to another two year term in this office.

Conference opened with all the church officials and delegates partaking of Holy communion.

Fraternal delegates attended from the Standard and Free Methodist Churches.

Encouraging progress was reported in five new churches planted within the past ten years at Milliken, Brampton, Orangeville, Kanata, and Kingston.

Presentations were made to Dr. Ira Taylor, retiring pastor of the Oakwood Church in Toronto, who had served 20 years, to Rev. Vernon Marples, pastor of the Wesleyan Church in Trenton, Ontario for 10 years service, and to Rev. W.W. Jewell for 30 years of service to the district.

The Denominational address was given by General Superintendent Wilson emphasising the challenge to the church in Habakkuk 3:2, "Lord, I have heard of your fame; I stand in awe of your deeds, O Lord. Renew them in our day." Rev. Wilson challenged the church to a sharpened focus on the purpose for its existence, which is to bring people to Jesus, emphasizing the need for intercessory prayer and holy living. To this the members of the Wesleyan Church of Canada both lay and ministerial are committed.

Last July 16th, on Saturday, we had our first annual Community Potluck Supper at the home of Tom and Marion Buntions. Tom and Marion came up with this great idea of getting everyone together and bringing their own favorite dishes. And we had a great time!

Thank you, Tom and Marion for your thoughtfulness.

And, that's how we got to enjoy Ted Stone's "Madras Sweet Curry". This exotic recipe is originally from Madras, Tamil Na-du in S. India. And he gladly gave me his recipe to share it with you.

Sorry ladies, he's married.

Chow, see you next week!

Madoc sewage system "tight"

Tweed bans construction for 18 months due to poor sewage dispersal

Development, both residential and commercial, requiring a connection with Tweed's sewage system, has been restricted, because of Stoco Lake water mixing with their sewage which is contained in a lagoon located on 35 acres of land just outside of Tweed. The ban on building is expected to last for at least the next 18 months.

Several leaks in the sewer system that serves Tweed have been found by the Ministry of the Environment and village officials. These leaks, during peak runoff and high water level periods in the spring, allow Stoco Lake water to flow into the sewage system.

SO HOW ABOUT MADOC?

A cottager telephoned the Madoc Review Thursday morning concerned with our lagoon. The cottager wanted to know why it's levels were so high.

Researching the issue it was discovered the Ministry of the Environment, Deloro, is responsible for maintaining our lagoon which is situated just south of Madoc.

The levels in question, according to Robert Empey of the Ministry, are high due to the fact that only one of the two cells in the lagoon is currently being utilized. This is the cell the cottager apparently witnessed.

Tweed's lagoon is operating at capacity, resulting in their sewage problems. Mr. Empey assured this paper that our sewage system is "quite tight" and that the currently unused "south" cell is "basically empty".

Two minor problems due exist with our lagoon but pose no threat. The first being that a so called "emergency" pipe connecting the two cells has a small leak, but according to Robert, during his 8 years with the Ministry the pipe has never had to be used.

The second being the presence of an island in one of the cells which is taking up storage space thus calling for it's removal.

Both problems are due for repair when proper finances can be obtained, but again, they pose no threat.

Fire caught "in time"

Madoc Township Fire Department have been called to a number of fires recently. According to Grant Ketcheson, of the Township Fire Department, the worst fire occurred on Rapid's Road on property owned by the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Firemen found garbage in the area of the fire which was left by someone, which they feel ignited the fire, "probably a cigarette" said Grant.

Grant continued saying that

"luckily under an acre was destroyed by the fire thanks to some motorists travelling the road".

By the time the Township got there, a helicopter from the Tweed MNR was waiting for water, thus "catching the fire in time". The fire was threatening a white pine plantation in that area and given ten more minutes the fire would have been rendered "out of control".

Two motorists, one travelling north, telephoned the Township Fire Department, while the other motorist, travelling south, went straight to the Tweed MNR, resulting in the helicopter being there when it was needed.

Friday before last the Township was successful in extinguishing 2 fires as the result of lightning strikes.

Residents and tourists are reminded that the ground is still extremely dry and caution should be taken when the use of a fire is required.

Bus service to commence

by Janice Pinke

Due to extensive planning and paperwork the new bus service that was hoped to have begun August 1st is now looking at a commencement date of September 1st. George Frantz, one of the co-ordinators of the new bus service says "they are optimistic that the bus will begin it's scheduled route around the beginning of September but no date has yet been set".

Tom Harwood of Social Services, Belleville, and George Frantz, a resident of Madoc, have been working on the project now for nearly two months. It started with the reader call-in survey featured in this newspaper.

Their original plan was to get a bus service initiated to serve those who are unemployed and unable to obtain adequate transportation to Belleville in order for them to work.

The response to be bus service being implemented has been overwhelming and will be open to anyone wishing to use this service.

Anyone wishing to learn anything else regarding the new bus service or wishing to register their input, should contact George Frantz at 473-2218.

Township offers free pick-up

At the Huntingdon Township meeting July 25th, council decided that this year, Monday, September 12th, would be the day the Township will provide a one-day garbage pick-up of large household items.

These items, usually unmovable by local residents because of their size and weight, will be transported by the Township to area dumps.

If you would like anything picked up on that day contact the Huntingdon Township offices at 473-4030.

Last year approximately 40 households in the immediate area were serviced.

Greater Moira Lake Horseshoe Tournament

The Greater Moira Lake Open Horseshoe Tournament was held Sunday, July 31st at the residence of Ab Reid.

Roger McConkey and Bruce Gordon were the "A" division champions and for their efforts received a trophy distinguishing them as so.

The team of Darryl Kramp and Wayne Cheeseman came in second and the events co-ordinators Bruce McNevin and Ab Reid placed third.

Congratulations and a thank you are extended to all those who participated.

The building currently housing Your Choice Hair Styling on Durham St. South has been sold, thus calling for the relocation of the hair salon. Their new move will mean that you can now cut down on main street traffic and head over to Russell St. North.

Fund to restore "Welcoming" signs

Wayne Budd of Madoc Printing has also been concerned with the slightly state of our "Welcoming" signs erected on the eastern and western sides of Madoc along Hwy. 7. This paper ran a feature regarding the signs and their poor state a few months ago. It was entitled "Sign of the Times?". Wayne has begun a fund to restore these signs which would improve first impressions of Madoc.

Wayne says that "since council won't do anything about the signs it's up to the individual businesses". Businesses established in Madoc may be effected by the poor state of the signs if they continue to be ignored.

Paul McKinley of Ivanhoe Cheese, Jim Denison of Re/Max Loyalist and Larry Stickwood of Stickwood's Madoc have already contributed to the fund.

The fund was established when Wayne spoke to Paul about the problem and both agreed that something should be done about them "now".

Anyone wishing to donate to the fund should contact Wayne Budd at Madoc Printing at 473-4194.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Con flag...

Dear Editor,
This letter is regarding the new village flag. I believe it is cluttered and not very eye catching. It surely does not reflect the beauty of our surrounding area, even though I am not a graphic artist.

I think a simpler, more basic design would have been more visually pleasing and practical.
Just thought I'd add my two cents.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

...Pro flag

Dear Editor,
Do the FEW residents of this community, who are criticizing our new Village flag, along with it's artist, Peter Hickey, actually have nothing better to do with their time?

Shame on them.
Why don't they vent their obvious STORED abilities on something worth while such as restoring our run down Village signs on Hwy. 7.

The flag is not crowded, nor is it blinding, as a FEW have suggested.

Instead, in my opinion, it is visually satisfying and yes, something to be displayed and to be proud of.

Your paper is to be congratulated for running it front page.
A Proud Resident

Editor's Note: I wanted the flag to cover the entire front page, but shoot, it wouldn't fit. Thanking you.

Your choice

...on the move

As of September 9th, Your Choice Hair Styling will be relocated and operating out of their new premises at 134 Russell St. North, across from Barton's Motel, next door to the Campbellford Travel Agency.

More parking, a renovated interior and a relief from main street traffic are what you, the customer, will now be privileged to.

Licensed hair stylists Nancy Creighton and Tracey Gooderham, known locally, opened up their first hair salon on November 11, 1986. Their current landlord has now sold the building requiring them to relocate. Their landlord-to-be, Wayne Hagerman, is renovating their new headquarters before their September 9th takeover.

Their telephone number 473-4996, is to remain the same, according to Bell Canada, who says that despite the workers strike there should be no problem having their number operational by the 12th of September.

A back-to-school special will coincide with their new opening. A grand opening has been planned but no date has yet been set.

Nancy Creighton says that their "total family hair care program will remain the same." "The only thing to change will be their place of business" according to Tracey Gooderham.

Shelley Blackburn will remain working with Nancy and Tracey on her already established schedule, as a licensed hair stylist, Thursday's, Friday's and Saturday's.

Hours of operation are currently and will remain as follows: Monday to Wednesday, 9 to 5; Thursday, 9 to 6:30; Friday, 9 to 7:30 and Saturday 8:30 to 2.

Nancy, Tracey and Shelley look forward to accommodating all established and new clientele in their new location. See you there!

O'Hara's Mill

Harvest Festival

Join the O'Hara Mill Museum staff in Madoc as they welcome you to the 2nd annual Harvest Festival. Beginning at 12 noon on Sunday August 28, family and friends are invited to take part in an array of activities guaranteed to provide a full day of entertainment and laughter for one and all.

Listen to old time fiddling while you enjoy a cob of freshly roasted corn. Demonstrations of old style butter churning, quilting, spinning, leather working, smocking, and an herb display will help you relive the ways of our Canadian pioneer settlers. Volunteers will also be on hand to help the kids make apple head dolls.

A special feature of the Harvest Festival will be the 2:00 p.m. performance of Tanglefoot. Tanglefoot is a 3-man band who have been sponsored by area merchants to entertain the crowds with songs, stories and images of early Canadian life.

Of course no trip to O'Hara Mill is complete without visiting the Homestead Museum, the pioneer schoolhouse, and the many other time honoured treasures on the premises. Come join the fun, bring a picnic basket and be ready for a good old fashioned whale of a time.

For volunteer or ticket information please contact the O'Hara Museum staff at (613) 473-2084 or MRCA at (613) 968-3434.

"Who Framed Roger Rabbit?" gets thumbs up

By Derek Baldwin

It's innovative, refreshing, action-packed, and suggests the world would be a better place if cartoons were real-life characters that we could reach out and touch. After spending almost two hours watching one of the best movies I've ever seen, I welcome the the suggestion.

"Who Framed Roger Rabbit" has been praised recently by top-notch movie critics as movie history. The high calibre colours and cartoon-actor integration work wonderfully giving a sense of realism, never seen before prior to the movies release.

I walked out of the theatre in a Roger Rabbit stupor, if you will - my sense of what is real and what isn't, abashed, maybe permanently. From start to finish, Roger Rabbit and supporting actor Private Detective Valiant grabbed my interest and kept me on the edge of my seat. The energy flowing from that big screen was phenomenal.

Picture yourself standing 20 feet directly in front of the starting line at the Kentucky Derby. The gates open and a string of powerful horses and their jockeys bolt from the stalls with tremendous intensity, coming straight at you. The first few minutes of "Who Framed Roger Rabbit" resembles the feeling you would have standing there, but instead of horses, Roger and his cartoon antics leave you breathless - certainly, the best picture entrance in movie history.

The plot, uncomplicated, easy to follow, and very unpredictable, left the analytical mind at ease to enjoy the next to what one thought was impossible, marvels of cartoon creativity.

The capacity theatre crowd at times roared with laughter as Roger had a fridge dropped on his head, was chased by a police-endorsed weasel posse, and glowed with his lovable, mischievous, Rabbit-like charm at times frustrating Valiant the private detective.

"Who Framed Roger Rabbit" set in the early 1930's featured a host of famous cartoon characters, all residents of "Toon Town" (where all of the cartoons lived).

If you like cartoons and have kids, this movie is definitely on the "MUST SEE" list. "Who Framed Roger Rabbit" gets an A, a nine out of 10, thumbs up. You won't be sorry.

Local couple elopes

by Janice Pinke

Eloped is defined in the dictionary as "running away with the intention of getting married". That's exactly what Dale Anne Wilson and James Paul Edward Davidson, now residing in Madoc did, July 28th, 1988.

Now man and wife, they have been dating for the past 9 years according to Margie Yarrow, who attended the wedding as matron of honour. Her husband, Jamie Yarrow, attended the groom as best man and Margie says "we were the only two people who knew about Dale's and Ed's plans".

They were united by Justice of the Peace, Mrs. Powers, in Belleville on July 28th, exactly nine years since the day they met.

Surprised parents are Bryant and Fran Wilson of Tweed and Elmer and Lola Davidson of Madoc.

Only two weeks before the actual elopement, was it decided, and no family was aware of what was about to happen.

Dale's family moved to Tweed 15 years ago, while Ed was born and raised in Madoc.

Margie Yarrow says "everyone is happy" and she has arranged for a reception in honour of the bride and groom dated for September 3rd at the Madoc Township Hall. She extends a welcome to anyone wishing to express their best wishes to attend the reception to be held that evening. Margie says that she suggested the reception for this purpose, as their are people who would like to

Wildfires increase in MNR Tweed District

Severe thunderstorms and dry ground conditions have resulted in an increase in wildfires in the Tweed District.

A total of 11 wildfires have been investigated since August 1st with 10 of these occurring this past weekend.

All of these fires, except for two, have resulted from lightning strikes. The people caused fires started from unextinguished campfires left by careless campers or fishermen.

The largest fire that occurred this past weekend reached 7 hectares (17 acres) in size and occurred North East of Sharbot Lake in Palmerston Township. It required an M.N.R. fire crew plus the Ompah Fire Department and several Township Fire Wardens to bring it under control.

The extremely dry ground conditions necessitate a large commitment of manpower and equipment resources to "mop up" these fires. This involves long hours of hard work under very taxing conditions.

The increase in fire activity has led to more resources being positioned in the Tweed District. This includes three (5 man) fire crews from Terrace Bay, Haliburton and Bancroft brought in to assist the 4 regular Tweed fire crews.

Other resources being utilized include a medium sized helicopter (205) stationed at the Tweed air base and a Hughes 500 helicopter which is working out of the Plevna Attack Base.

More thunderstorms activity is expected in the Tweed area over the next few days which could bring additional fire starts.

The public's co-operation is required to help prevent people caused fires. Please ensure all campfires and debris fires are completely extinguished and that extra care is taken with smoking materials and matches.

Dale and Edward eloped and were married July 28th. Dale's father, Bryant, asked his daughter to show him her marriage licence as he didn't believe the couple had secretly gotten married. Despite the elopement, everyone is happy and their marriage was expected since they had been dating for the past nine years.

News from

by Evelyn Lynn

Queensborough - The Queensborough branch of the W.I. met on Wednesday August 10 for their regular meeting beginning at 8 p.m. with Mrs. Harold Tokley as hostess.

Mrs. David Gordon opened the meeting with a poem, "Getting Old, Impossible" followed by O'Canada, the Ode and Mary Stewart Collect.

The Roll-Call, "Something I can recycle in my home" was discussed and it was found there are many ways of saving reusable articles. There were 16 members and 3 visitors present.

George Best was our guest speaker and he spoke of the efforts that are being made to get a project under way so that it would be easier for country people to get their articles to a recycling plant. He mentioned how paper, cans and glass can be packed to make it easier to handle, he also spoke of many other articles that can be used. This was a very instructive talk.

Mrs. Best also read a letter on the same subject as to what we should do to save so much waste in different ways.

Mrs. Allan Ramsay was in charge of the program which she began by having Bernice Cassidy's grand-daughter Karla Cassidy sing "You are my Sunshine".

Bobbie presented a quiz on things that had happened around Queensborough down through the years. This was very interesting and enjoyed by everyone. This was called Front Street Challenge.

It was reported that $77.00 had been sent in aid of the Hotel Dieu Cat Scan Project. Several letters were read. Thankyou letters were read from the Moore and Walters families for lunches served after the funerals of John Moore and Ernie Walters.

It was decided to send the usual donation to the Madoc Agricultural Society. A letter was read re Short Courses to be had but nothing was done.

We were reminded of our invitation to Cooper later this summer.

The meeting closed with the Queen and lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

O.P.P. REPORT

Break, Enter & Theft

Madoc OPP are currently investigating a break, enter and theft at Woodbeck's Auto Parts, north of Stirling. Thieves broke into the building by smashing a side window.

Dog Bite

Twenty-one-year-old Tammy Sandford was bitten by a dog as she rode her bicycle north of the Village of Madoc. Sandford received a wound to her left thigh and was treated at the Madoc Health Centre.

Police are currently investigating the incident.

Suspicious Persons and Vehicles

Madoc OPP have received several calls regarding suspicious vehicles and persons in their detachment area. Police would advise the public when they feel something is suspicious to get a good description, if possible.

If it's a suspicious vehicle, the ideal piece of information would be a license number, but in the absence of that, a description including size, color and make is of value to police.

Police also remind the public not to place themselves in a position of danger, but rather get a description and call the police.

Crime Doesn't Pay - Crime Stoppers Does.

Quinte Crime Stoppers, in co-operation with Tweed P.F. and Madoc OPP, are requesting your assistance in solving a Break, Enter and Theft, which occurred in the Village of Tweed.

Sometime between the hours of 4 p.m. Saturday, July 2nd, 1988 and noon on Sunday, July 3rd, 1988, thieves broke into the Tweed Co-op Store, which is located on Highway 37, at the north end of Tweed.

The culprits entered the store by smashing the patio doors on the south side of the building. The thieves had gained access to the fenced-in compound area by cutting a two-foot square section out of the chainlink fence which surrounds the compound.

Once inside of this area, they focused their attentions on gaining entry to the store itself. The thieves removed six chainsaws from a display rack in the store and exited the same way as they had entered.

A treasured invalid's cup was on display at the Quilts and Treasures show held recently. Ada Adam's grandmother was the original owner of the cup which is estimated at being over 90 years old.

The Beaver did not prompt the descriptive term "busy as a beaver" by accident. The beaver's habits and determination make it one animal that has a profound impact on our environment. Beavers are probably more abundant today than they have ever been in Ontario and provide us with benefits and problems.

The beaver's unique aquatic lifestyle often requires it to construct dams on streams of various sizes resulting in the flooding of land and the creation of the "beaver pond".

These ponds often create beneficial fish and wildlife habitat and also act as natural water reservoirs during dry periods.

Apart from the benefits resulting from the beaver and its labour, its habits can create problems which may prove to be serious. The work of beavers often goes beyond what property owners had in mind for their property. Beavers often destroy valuable trees and flood woodlots. Their ponds may flood agricultural land and their dams may back water up and flood roads. Dams may collapse during the spring freshet or after heavy rain, washing out roads and flooding property and even homes or buildings and may even threaten life in doing so. Your local Municipality may spend a lot of money every year to repair damages caused by beaver.

The role of the Ministry of Natural Resources in beaver management is to maximize the benefits of the beaver by controlling their harvest while working with landowners (cottagers, farmers, municipipalities etc.) and trappers to control the nuisance aspect of the beaver. The Game and Fish Act permits landowners to destroy beaver and their dams in protection of their property. For humane reasons the landowner is not allowed to use traps for this purpose unless he is the holder of a trapper's licence and therefore familiar with humane trapping methods.

Property owners should monitor beaver dams on their property to ensure they are not holding back water which is flooding adjacent property. Likewise they should keep in mind the potential for dams to break and create washouts and flood conditions downstream. Old abandoned beaver dams holding back large quantities of water are particularly vulnerable to washing out in this manner.

Should a neighbouring landowner or municipal government representative (ie. road superintendent) advise you as a landowner that a dam on your property is causing flooding to their property, it is strongly recommended that you take action to carefully remove or control the dam. Failure to do so may result in you being civilly liable for damages to persons or property.

In order to prevent excessive damage by beavers the Ministry encourages landowners to grant permission to trappers to trap on their property. The landowner can control the trapper's activities on his property and only permit the trapping of certain animals in certain locations if he or she so wishes. In the case of a chronic nuisance beaver area the Ministry suggests the trappers be advised to remove all beaver from the area.

To be effective in the control of nuisance beaver; municipalities, landowners, trappers, and the Ministry of Natural Resources must work cooperatively on the problem. Our most effective control is through the trappers and if they can trap potential nuisance beaver during the open season from late October to the end of March we can all benefit from this resource.

Thanks Marmora Curling Club

As all our community warmly pulls together to raise money for young Ricky MacGillivray. The Marmora and area Curling Club would like to update readers on the club's continued efforts on behalf of Ricky and his friends at Camp Oochigeas. Denny and Inga Draper were privileged to represent the Marmora Curling Club at the dedication of a permanent resource center in memory of Denise Sheppard, July 26th, at the camp. It was a wonderful day and everyone had a ball. The money the club raised in March was used to help with the facility and we are very proud to be a part of it.

We plan on continuing our work in the camp's direction and we are very pleased to announce his honour, Lincoln Alexander, Lieutenant Governor, has accepted our invitation to be present at our next Cure For Kids Bonspiel to be held on March 25th, 1989. His honour is a patron of Camp Oochigeas. Teddi Coe has promised to pipe his honour in with as many of the pipe band as she can get together. It should be a great day.

We wish to congratulate all those who are working so hard on Ricky's behalf. Let's hope we will always be there for children who need us.

SCIENCE CORNER COMPUTER VIRUSES

by Nigel Bunce and Jim Hunt
College of Physical Science
University of Guelph

If your computer had a virus, would you give it a flu shot? In fact, that might work, but the cure might be worse than the disease. What is a computer virus and how does a computer catch one? A recent article in "Science" discusses this problem.

Imagine that one day you connect your home computer to one of the international computer networks in order to communicate with other computers and take advantage of all the power such systems offer.

You quickly learn there is a lot of free computer software available on these networks.

Many computer buffs love to share their latest programs. You "download" some of this marvelous free software, but what you don't know is that a separate and vicious program is embedded in one of the programs.

It does not affect your computer at first, but since it is designed to reproduce itself and attach itself to any program or message you send out, it will infect many more computers.

One day a certain combination of key strokes on your keyboard will trigger the program to carry out its intended purpose. A message like "gotcha" appears on your screen and immediately your computer memory is erased. The virus has struck.

Other viruses may not be so destructive but simply annoying in that they interrupt your work to flash their moronic message and then move onto infect other computers.

There is a club of computer hackers in West Germany whose sole purpose is to design viruses of increasing subtlety and virulence in order to infect and disrupt the most sensitive and best-protected computers. You may well imagine the chaos that would ensue if they succeed in implanting a malignant virus in a major banking computer or infecting an important military installation.

They claim to have infected the NASA computers to be ready to trigger their virus into action. The prospect of this vandalism in Star Wars is a chilling one.

Major institutions like banks and the military will not admit the problem exists. Indeed, the U.S. military has done everything in its power to stifle public discussion of the topic but you may be sure that they are working on it and that they are worried.

The problem is that these vandals have been able to infect every "safe" computer they have attacked. Major disasters have been averted only because the virus has usually been discovered before it has carried out its mission.

Attempts have been made to write programs that will detect and eliminate viruses. One such program, called "Flu Shot IV", was distributed very cheaply by its inventor to eliminate viruses. What he didn't know was that a vandal had embedded a virus in the program so that everyone who used the program actually infected their computer.

Some viruses are just well intentioned experiments gone wrong. On December 11, 1987, a West German student created a Christmas message virus that attached itself to all names in a computer's mailing list. This virus got into the IBM International network and attached itself to every mailing address in the system. Within hours, it had totally swamped and shut down the IBM system. It was cleaned up at a great expense.

There is clearly a battle being waged between computer companies and users and a small coterie of very clever vandals. It is not yet clear who will be the winner.

We welcome questions and ideas for future columns. Write to the authors, c/o the Dean's Office, College of Physical Science, University of Guelph, Guelph, Ont. N1G 2W1.

LEASING WITH AN OPTION TO BUY

Two people should find out if they really belong together before they tie the knot. Such is the opinion of many who maintain the advantages of living together unmarried. Personally, and as a church, we maintain the opposing opinion.

I seriously question the validity of knowledge gained in a live-in relationship. How well can a person really know another when they are on a constant trial basis? Is a person really free to be who they want to be under those circumstances?

Some may respond with the assumption that living together under such circumstances keeps both individuals on their toes, at their best, and heightens their romance.

I dismiss such an argument on two grounds: true love and romance is experienced in an environment of security, not insecurity; and true love flourishes not when our performance expectations are met, but instead, when we expect each other as we are.

Furthermore, what happens if the relationship ends and the product is returned for a full refund? Or, can a human being be treated like a product? What type of psychological effects are produced when this happens?

When we answer these questions, we will be dealing with many deep-seated feelings, such as: abandonment, failure, guilt, anger and disillusionment.

When we answer these questions, we will be dealing with two sexes, male and female. The male partner, although not immune, seems to weather a break-up easier than the female. The female, in turn, experiences a tremendous disillusionment, tremendous guilt and anger.

Why does the female experience these feelings to a greater extent? Margaret Banning has written that, "Each girl's chastity is the interweaving of her moral code, her nervous system, her physical being, and her mind." ("The Case For Chastity," The Reader's Digest, August 1937).

When a woman's chastity is cast aside and trampled on, she is bound to experience the feelings we have mentioned.

Some may say that these are the same feelings associated with a divorce of a married couple. This is true to a point. But since there is some validity to this argument, we should proceed to examine the feelings involved with each partner during the relationship.

While some may not be ready to admit it, while others may seem OK, and while some may suggest that living together is great, each participant in a live-in relationship is either experiencing guilt or suppressing it. Why do I say this?

Guilt has tell-tale signs. Common-law couples testify to their sense of guilt by the ruses they use to conceal their relationship from certain people.

Common-law couples alter their living patterns to avoid situations where their guilt might be aroused. They may suddenly drop out of church. They may stop attending family gatherings. They may try to introduce their partner as their husband or wife to save the embarrassment of having to explain their relationship.

These responses are due to the fact that people sense a moral order in our universe. When people transgress these laws they feel guilty. When confronted with guilt, many seek ways to alleviate it.

To chance a live-in relationship is to chance a break-up and its aftermath. To chance a common-law relationship is to experience guilt or its suppression.

To live together married brings more stability and a better environment in which to love each other fully. To be married is to experience joy not guilt, for there is no transgressing of the moral laws of the universe.

Next week, we will develop more fully why marriage is so important!

Give a hoot
pollute

No matter how far we travel nor how remote the area we cannot escape from man-made litter. On a recent trip down a northern Ontario river much used by hunters, fishermen and canoeists, although we encountered people only once, we found reminders of them all along the route. There were paper, beer bottles, pop cans and plastic. Supermarked bags floated gently in the wash from the rapids, and green garbage bags poked up obscenely from the moss and fragrant sweet fern.

Since plastics are light, strong and durable, they have almost unlimited uses. Unfortunately, once they have served their purpose they will be around as long as the Pyramids. The failure of plastics to break down in the environment has made the problem of disposal a nightmare. But the amount of plastic litter everywhere is also an indication that many people refuse to take responsibility for their own garbage. Since ever present litter on beaches, and in woods and parks is a deterrent to everyone's enjoyment, the majority of Canadians would like to do something about it.

What can we do? We can make sure that our own garbage is not left about as litter. But that does nothing to solve the problem of all our plastic garbage which will long outlast us. Given its versatility it is unlikely that the use of plastics will decline. In the U.S., for instance, the 2 litre plastic soft drink container represents 22% of the volume of soft drinks sold. Also plastics share of U.S. municipal waste has nearly doubled in the past 10 years. As Canadian patterns of consumption are close to those of the U.S. it is safe to assume we have a similar problem.

A Canadian group has provided one solution for eliminating this growing mountain

MADOC BOWLING LANES ANOTHER CHANGE IN MADOC

The management of Madoc Bowling wish to thank all of our clients from the past seasons for their support and generous help; but due to the lack of community wide support and rising costs for our bowling events and special activities, as of August 30th 1988 we will no longer be involved in the bowling alley operation in Madoc.

When we arrived in town eight years ago, we had certain goals to achieve:

- 1) offer a participation for all ages,
- 2) maintain a high degree of cleanliness,
- 3) try to provide an awareness of bowling potential to any and all ages as a community sport,
- 4) and finally to bring the sport of bowling out of the dark ages into a new and bright future.

Hopefully we have achieved certain of the above goals, unfortunately to some these ideas did not materialize in a manner of speaking. But without a complete community wide support network, any sport regardless of skill or enjoyment can not achieve success.

We had not thought that we requested or required too much in this area, we did not to our knowledge make waves out of the ordinary, we just tried to provide a quality family sport that could grow in the years to come; hopefully the sport of bowling will not disappear into the closet in the years to come, but one can not operate alone in this business. We hope the next operators garnish the necessary support.

Thank You,
Al & Brian Sharpe

of eternal waste. They have produced a substance they call Ecolyte, which can be added to any plastic mix and breaks down under the ultra violet rays of the sun. The plastic degrades slowly into carbon dioxide and water. This is not an instant process any more than any other form of decay, but the material does break down into natural components. Ecolyte has no effect on the performance of the plastic.

Often new technology is too expensive to be attractive to businesses. In this case, the manufacturer, Eco Corporation, estimates that Ecolyte would add 5% to the overall cost of the plastic, a small price to pay for freedom from beaches strewn with plastic cups and packages.

Ecolyte appears to be an elegant solution to a tacky problem. Where can one buy plastic which contains Ecolyte? The answer is that in Ontario you can't. Although Safeway stores in the west are using grocery bags which are degradable, no one in Ontario is interested. So far neither the provincial government nor large chains which produce potential litter have committed themselves to introducing the product.

If you would like to use grocery bags, food packages and cups which will not outlast you, write to Premier David Peterson, Room 281, Legislative Building, Queen's Park, Toronto, M7A 1A1. You should also write to Hon. James Bradley, Minister of the Environment, 15th Floor, 135 St. Clair Ave. West, Toronto, M4V 1P5 and ask when residents of Ontario will be able to obtain this product. Send copies to your M.P.P. and to your local supermarket and fast food stores, and any other places which produce large amounts of potential litter. With all the furor about recycling, this is one product which has the potential to reduce offensive litter dramatically and also the volume of garbage. Ontario needs to move quickly to catch up with more progressive areas in Canada.

In a perfect world people wouldn't litter and would be frugal in their use of materials. But in our less than perfect one, Ecolyte looks like a welcome helper in our fight to reduce our own garbage.

More computers for Ontario schools

More computer manufacturers will be able to have their computers approved for use in Ontario schools under revisions to the Ministry of Education's educational microcomputer program announced today by Education Minister Chris Ward.

In addition, the Ministry will undertake a project to improve software portability, so that new and existing educational software can be used on all approved microcomputers used in Ontario classrooms. These decisions are the result of recommendations made by the Minister's Council on Educational Technology, which is chaired by Wes Graham, Dean of Computing and Communications, at the University of Waterloo.

Mr. Ward said that recent technological changes have made it possible to revise ministry specifications so that more manufacturers will be able to have their computers approved for school use. These changes include the updating of computer storage requirements, the adoption of Canadian and international standards for the machines and the refinement of French-language requirements. Ontario school boards receive ministry grants for the purchase of computers that meet the ministry specifications.

Mr. Graham said, "The Ministry, by its announcement today, has decided to implement the major components of the Council's recommendations. As a result, our students and teachers will continue to have state-of-the-art technology available to enhance the process of implementing the curriculum and to meet strategic educational objectives. These opportunities are being made available in the most cost effective way to maximize the benefits to Ontario schools and to Ontario industry."

Tourney of Hope

The 4th annual Tournament of Hope was held in Norwood and Havelock last Weekend raising $5,000 for young Cody Anne Field and local sportsman Kirk Lytle. Thirty teams took part in the two-day event with Connaught Vending of Peterborough taking the Competitive Division final with a 19-12 win over Fabrizio. Neale's of Warsaw took the Recreational final 11-8 over Heffernans. Tournament organizers Mike and Lisa Lytle were more than pleased with the turnout, the volunteer assistance and help from sponsors - Molsons, H & R Block and Gail's Hair Care of Peterborough.

The comments in last week's paper on physiotherapy are the opinions of one person and do not reflect or include those of others. During the last few days, I have heard a few comments on their opinions on physiotherapy.

"Some exercises I'm doing make me feel like I'm climbing Mt. Everest, but each day my legs are getting stronger, like a mountain climber. Thanks to the determination of my physiotherapist and her encouragements."

"I have lower back pain. As soon as I stop feeling back pain, I stop doing my exercise. But my physiotherapist wouldn't give up on me. She kept right at me and you know something? I'm glad she did." That brought up another area that physiotherapists stress a great deal. Patient co-operation plays a big part in the rehabilitation of the patient. "If they did what they were told to do on a regular basis, they would feel much better."

Remember, last March 16, 1988, Frank H. Crane wrote about physiotherapists: My 'physio' explained what my exercises were going to do for me, and said that she hoped to have me on a 'walker' in a couple of weeks and then, not too long afterwards, she expected that I would 'graduate' to a cane.

"Why you'll be able to weed your garden in a few months, but don't try to do too much. Try to remember that your body isn't as young as it used to be," she said. "It will take your body much longer to heal itself than it would have fifty years ago."

I like this one. "The freedom to move is life itself." Remember now that each patient is different. Some have more pains that are almost unbearable, can hardly move and are unable to cope with physiotherapy. It seems like a torture chamber to them. And that's where the physiotherapist comes to the rescue, if you let them.

Help them to help you. What have you got to lose?

Community Facilities Made Accessible with New Fund

Hearing impaired persons can participate in community events at the Pro Cathedral of the Assumption in North Bay following the installation of an FM system in its meeting facilities.

And, mobility-impaired members of the Greater Windsor Senior Citizens' Association have an easier time entering the association's building since the entrance was removed.

These two groups are among the 71 organizations across the province which received funding from the Access Fund, a $15-million program of the Office for Disabled Persons and the Office for Senior Citizens Affairs.

The fund provides up to $30,000 in matching grants to private, non-profit organizations looking to renovate their existing community meeting facilities to accommodate the access needs of elderly and disabled persons.

Types of renovations being funded include washrooms, lifts, ramps, the installation of infra-red or FM systems and way-finding systems.

"Anything that will enhance the elderly or disabled person's abilities to take part in community events," said Doug Mayer, Access Fund co-ordinator.

Christ Church United, in Clarkson, received a grant of $17,500 to renovate washrooms, construct a new entrance and complete the installation of a new elevating device.

Most of the groups receiving funding have been religious organizations and service clubs like the Canadian Legion. "I would like to see consumer groups getting involved," Mayer said.

The next deadlines for the Access Fund are October 1, 1988, April 1, 1989 and October 1, 1989. For applications or information, contact: The Access Fund, MacDonald Block, Room M1-341, Queen's Park, Toronto, Ontario M7A 1N3; or phone 1-800-387-4456.

Grant Awarded to Disabled Horseback Riding Program

A Wintario development grant of $21,640 has been awarded by the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation to a program that offers horseback riding sessions to physically disabled children and young adults.

The grant to the Central Ontario Development Riding Program will be used to hire a public relations officer and a project manager on a part-time basis, to expand services into Waterloo and Wellington Counties and to train volunteers and board members in fund-raising.

The Scholarship sponsored by the Canadian Nuffield Agricultural Scholarship Association will be awarded to one Canadian farmer or farm manager to study farming practices and agricultural conditions in a Commonwealth country during the coming year.

The purpose of the Scholarship is to increase practical farm knowledge and to provide a better understanding among Commonwealth farmers.

Applicants will be able to select their study program in either the United Kingdom,

New Zealand, or Australia. Attendance at an organized program in the United Kingdom is also included in the Scholarship.

Application is open to men or women who are either farm managers or are engaged in practical farming in Canada, and who are persons likely to spread their knowledge upon their return. Applicants must exhibit keen research and leadership traits. They must also be Canadian citizens, preferably between 30 and 45 years of age.

The Scholarship awarded will cover travel and basic living expenses for the scholar. The length of travel must be at least four months, depending on the type of study and country selected, and begin in February 1989.

On return to Canada, the scholar will prepare a report for the Nuffield Scholarship Selection Committee; present information at public farm meetings; and use the increased knowledge to improve farming practices in his/her community.

Application forms are available from the President, Canadian Nuffield Scholarship Association, 7195 Millcreek Drive, Mississauga, Ont. L5N 4H1.

This year's Scholarship winner will be announced by November 30, 1988.

New 3 card match game for Ontario

Toronto - 3-Card Match, the newest version of Ontario's Instant lottery, offers players chances to win up to $25,000 instantly. Ontario Lottery Corporation Chairman Walter Strothers announced August 5, 1988.

"All 3-Card Match tickets have undergone stringent tests to ensure their security from even the most sophisticated technology," Strothers said.

3-Card Match players scratch off the coating on the play area of their ticket. Underneath, they will find a prize amount and nine symbols - a combination of hearts, diamonds, spades, clubs and jokers. Players who match three identical symbols win the prize amount shown.

Instant prizes include $25,000, $2,000, $50, $15, $8, $4 and free tickets. Chances of winning a prize are 1 in 3.8.

Tickets for Lucky Match, the current Instant game, are still available.

The Ontario Lottery Corporation is a Crown corporation responsible for operating government lotteries in the province. To date, lotteries have raised more than $2.5 billion for distribution by the government of Ontario to a variety of projects.

 PERSONALIZED SERVICE IN OUR OFFICE OR AT YOUR HOME

Ah, 'tis indeed a great and wondrous thing--to live in Ontario. I am sure this or similar thoughts must have gone through Glen Frank's mind, last week, as he finished bringing in a 30-pound Cohoe Salmon from Lake Ontario.

A group of five of us hired a boat in Brighton Bay and then proceeded out in the lake to fish waters ranging from 50 to 100 feet. According to our captain and his equipment, we were catching fish at about 90 feet.

As well as Glen's winner, we brought in an additional nine Cohoe, ranging from five to 10 pounds, one 15-pound lake trout, and a six-pound rainbow trout.

All in all, an excellent day. The weather was good and as the charter supplies everything except food and drink, a day of relaxation and comradeship.

On Friday evening past, our local Co-op celebrated its 40th Anniversary with a dance on its newly-paved parking lot (rather reminiscent of the old street dances). Live music by the band, Country Pride, great country and western, and an unending supply of hot dogs and beverages, were dispensed all evening.

I do not have the names of the winners, but several prizes were drawn for and given out as part of the ceremonies. A plaque was presented to manager Bill Havekes to commemorate the occasion.

The Rural Scene

One can only compliment the staff and directors on the occasion. A pleasant and enjoyable evening made so by the staff's friendly manner and attention to detail. Congratulations.

On Sunday afternoon, I was privileged to assist in cooking hamburgers and hot dogs at the Madoc Manor for those people that worked so hard over the years to make Ontario the great place to live in today. We prosper not only because of the efforts of today, but because of the efforts of our predecessors as we will hopefully continue to do for those to follow us.

A count is not available, but the grounds were full of friends, residents and relatives, proving the love and esteem in which these people are held.

Glen Franks

The Madoc Volunteer Fire Department provided the manpower and all the equipment. I am sure all those in attendance will join me in thanking them for their surrendering of a Sunday afternoon so that others might benefit.

Again, one must compliment the staff of the Manor for their efficiency and all the work that goes in advance to make an event like this go smoothly and successfully.

Despite our ups and downs, Ontario truly is a GREAT PLACE to live.

Garbage Day, Sept. 12th

Township offers free pick-up

At the Huntingdon Township meeting July 25th, council decided that this year, Monday, September 12th, would be the day the Township will provide a one-day garbage pick-up of large household items.

These items, usually unmovable by local residents because of their size and weight, will be transported by the Township to area dumps.

If you would like anything picked up on that day contact the Huntingdon Township offices at 473-4030.

Last year approximately 40 households in the immediate area were serviced.

Quote angers council

According to Madoc Village's Reeve Tom Deline and council member Lynda Matchett, council decided to do something about restoration of our 'Welcoming Signs' on Hwy. 7, back when this paper featured a story about the poor state of the signs entitled 'Sign of the Times'.

According to Reeve Deline, Gord Crawford, a council member and chairman of the Protection Development Committee, is preparing a material price list and a run down of installation costs, which are to be presented to the Village Council at their next meeting.

Reeve Deline telephoned the Madoc Review concerned about a quote which appeared in last week's paper in an article pertaining to the restoration of the signs. He sustains that council has done alot to "dress-up" this community this summer and obtaining new 'welcoming signs' is part of the enhancement. Already council has been responsible for the repainting of local bridges and community owned buildings. Reeve Deline says when speaking about funds for our 'welcoming signs' that he 'agrees businesses should help'.

Daryl Krämp, a member of the Chamber of Commerce says that the Chamber has 'earmarked some funds towards the restoration of the signs but the amount won't be determined until some kind of co-ordination is unveiled by those also raising funds'.

Those already offering monetary support include Wayne Budd of Madoc Printing, Jim Denison of Re/Max Loyalist, Paul McKinley of Ivanhoe Cheese and Larry Stickwood of Stickwood's Madoc.

Silver medal for golden athlete

by Janice Pinke

Andrea Peters, 17, lives in Millbridge and will return to school this September as a grade 12 student at CHSS.

She's a pitcher for the Enright Insurance Midget Girls Baseball team, who recently honoured Belleville and area, returning from the Canadian National Midget Girls Softball Championships with a silver medal. The team went to New Brunswick representing Ontario.

Their entry into Canadian's resulted when the team won the Ontario Provincial Midget Girls Softball Championships 5 to 0, not losing a single game.

Andrea leaves August 26th for Waterloo, Ontario, to try out for an all-star team, made up of girls from across Ontario, who will eventually form a team, who will attend the Canada Games in St. Catharines next year.

During this try-out, 20 girls will be selected to return to another all-star try-out next summer, at which time 15 of the original 20 selected will qualify to participate in the Canada Games.

Career-wise, Andrea is planning on attending University upon completion of grade 13 at CHSS. Phys-ed is her first career choice.

When asked how her stay was in New Brunswick and their bringing home the silver medal, Andrea replied "the best".

Also on display these days in the window of Wilson's Art Supplies are various paintings; the work of local artists Noreen Alexander, Peter Hickey and Nadine Wilson. The paintings have been in the window, on consignment, since mid June. Ellen Wilson approached the artists with the idea, about the paintings she says "they've been getting alot of attention".

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Con flag...

Dear Editor

When I received my Madoc paper in the mail today my first glance at the new flag crest was "Yuck" now that I look at it more closely it's a double "Yuck", who on earth would accept a crest that looks and reminds me of a stew pot complete with handles and lid. I don't know what the art work inside the pot is to represent but it reminds me of EVIL vs. GOOD. With a devil with a crown on the bottom and a fierce dragon in the centre with a rose, clover and shaking hands around it, doesn't make sense. I took art at CHSS and I was taught that all art resembles something and tells of our feelings. This picture to me has nothing whatsoever to do with the loving village of MADOC. If I were you I would consider something else.

Formerly of Madoc but my heart is always there.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

What were you doing Feb. 6, 1984?

Dear Editor

In the early hours of February 6, 1984, PIERRE RICHARD LEVESQUE, sat in his home near Bancroft, Ontario, CANADA, watching television station HBO being broadcast by SATCOM F3 satellite. The broadcasting area reached across the continental United States and parts of Canada.

At approximately 4 a.m. the Plaintiff, PIERRE RICHARD LEVESQUE, saw a film based on episodes from his private life, while he was in residence at Palmerston Lake, Ontario, which covered a period from 1976 through 1981.

The emotional and mental anguish caused by the Defendant at seeing intimate conversations between himself and his former wife, WINNIFRED GRACE BARTON, resulted in protracted and acrimonious family disputes and consequent loss of extensive business damages.

The wrongful interference with the Plaintiff's personal and business affairs has resulted in irreparable damage to the commercial value of the Plaintiff's extensive commercial enterprises, involving projects in commercial television, film, radio, and recording, as well as in public appearances, publishing, consulting and social invention.

"The Film" implied that the Plaintiff was under surveillance by the Ontario Provincial Police, or other government law-enforcement agency. Their voiceover of the narrator is so designed as to cast doubt, aspersions and disrepute on the reputation of the Plaintiff and to undermine his credibility.

A $100,000 reward in U.S.A. funds is offered to anyone who saw "The Film" in any part of the broadcast area or who can throw light on this matter.

Statements on this matter should be mailed to:
Alfred Lambremont Weber,
Attorney at Law,
372 Central Park West,
Suite 6P
New York, N.Y. 10025
U.S.A.

All replies will be held in the strictest confidence.

Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit will be offering a parenting course in Madoc. "Active Parenting" is a video-based course combining brief video scenes with leader facilitated group discussions, reading and writing assignments, and real life practice. The course consists of an introductory/registration night and 6 two hour sessions.

"Active Parenting" will start on Tuesday, September 13, 1988 at 8 p.m. at the Madoc sub office of the Health Unit at 12 St. Lawrence St. W., and will Developmentally handicapped brothers, Willy and Jackie, sponsored by the Tweed Legion, spent two weeks at Trudeau's Park, Camp Lake Stoco, this summer. Jackie, their mother, is commended with rearing them solely on her own but they now need more, Big Brother's.

by Janice Pinke

Do what the guys do

Willy's mother, Jackie, went to get a pen and some paper for a journalist not quite ready to begin that day, leaving Willy and myself alone. With a big smile Willy says that "I should put myself on T.V."

Willy and Justin have been diagnosed as hyperactive and having minimal brain dysfunction. Their last scheduled check-up proved them to be two to three years behind their peers.

Both want and need a Big Brother.

Jackie, their mother says that it is "important we try and find a placement for Willy because he is older". According to Jackie, Big Brother's and their Little Brothers need "a year to establish a relationship". "So that leaves Willy 6 months to find a Big Brother."

Willy is 14 1/2 years old, in six months Willy will turn 15, thus, leaving him only one year to enjoy the facets associated with having a Big Brother.

Justin is a couple of months short of his 13th birthday. Jackie says it would be nice if both the boys could find Big Brother's but she's worried that if "Willy doesn't get a Big Brother in the next six months, it will be too late".

The boys have had little male influence in their lives. Jackie is to be credited with rearing and supporting Willy and Justin for the last 8 years; since their father left. Their grandfather passed away 3 years ago and the only other man to offer any kind of support was Jackie's brother, their uncle, who left Ontario 9 years ago.

Jackie and the boys moved to Tweed from Toronto over two years ago, where they had also applied for Big Brother sponsorship but to no avail. For the past year Jackie, Willy and Justin have been living with Jackie's mother, Betty; bringing into the family that needed family stability and unity.

Asking Willy why he wants a Big Brother, again with a big smile he answers "I don't know; to sit and watch T.V. all day" or "go to the park". He would like to learn how to skate better. He also enjoys bicycling, swimming and is fascinated with ATV's.

Willy starts high school this fall and his mother is concerned about the "changes that come with his body and his confusion handling them". According to Jackie the Hastings area is renowned for their special schooling techniques which are reported to be the best in Ontario, but only now are they integrating a sex education class into their system. For the first time ever, Willy will have a male teacher by the name of Mr. Cox at CHSS this year. Jackie feels the slow integration of a sex education class in the special school system is because there are "so many other areas to cover with these kids" and that it is something new being incorporated by the schools.

"So here's a 14 1/2 year old boy, with a 16 years old body and an 11 year old mind" Jackie explains, giving reason to the fact that Willy needs a Big Brother as soon as possible.

The boys have been on the Madoc's Big Brother's waiting list for the past one and a half years.

Margaret Cooper of Big Brother's/Sister's Madoc says that since she has joined the Madoc chapter, she has received no applications whatsoever from anyone wanting to be a Big Brother.

Willy and Justin really need someone to show them what the guys do.

Anyone interested in volunteering to become either a Big Brother or a Big Sister should contact their offices at 473-4247.

Union voted in Community Press gets voice

By Derek Baldwin

15 out of 20 employees of the Stirling based "Community Press" newspaper have had their wishes granted recently.

After voting for union representation in the fall of 87, the Service Employee's Union has now given them their initial union certification, effective as of August 5.

"We're waiting for the certificate to come down from the Labour Board in Toronto," Norm Dunlop, of the Service Employee's Union said last Thursday. "We went to the board on August 5th, for full certification on part-time and full-time employees at the Community Press."

Dunlop said, "75 per cent voted for representation. Only 56 per cent is needed. This signifies the majority have voted to opt to have representation."

Dunlop stated, "We will represent the Community Press employee's rights, their terms and conditions of employment and help put them into writing. The rights of the company will be involved as well."

"Once the employees have obtained their union certificate they can enter collective bargaining with the employers at Community Press," Dunlop said.

When contacted by Stirling News-Argus, Terry Bush, reporter and photographer for the Community Press said, "It's going to give the workers a voice. It is all a democratic process - 75 per cent of the staff thought that we would benefit from bringing a union in."

Bush, one of the original staffers, stated, "It will spell out the working conditions in black and white for both parties."

Dunlop commenting on co-operation received from Community Press management so far said, "I don't perceive any problems with them. We have notified them of the conditions saying, 'here's the way it is until the employees get to the collective bargaining table'."

Dunlop also said any efforts made by the management to hassle its employees in regards to the new union would end up being, "a costly affair on their side. We don't want to drag them to the labour board every week."

Alan Coxwell, Editor and co-owner of the Community Press when contacted by Stirling News-Argus had "no comment".

The Service Employee's Union told Community Press that subject to the Labour Board's check, certificates will be issued to employees.

Fishy

Weighing 34 1/2 pounds when it was caught, Bob Bancroft holds his largest catch ever a Shinkok Salmon or more commonly known as a King Salmon Tuesday evening at 9 p.m. at the City Boat Docks in Oakville. Hoping his fish would qualify him for a monetary prize in the Toronto Star's Great Salmon Hunt, Bob located their official scales, only to find they had been shut down for the evening. By the time the scales opened the following morning, Bob's fish weighed in at 31 1/2 pounds. A waterside spring scale recorded the previous evenings weight at 34 1/2 pounds. Ken Topping who was with Bob Bancroft on their fishing expedition landed an 18 pound King Salmon. In all 12 fish were caught by the four man crew. According to Bob, the largest salmon to be caught during the run of the Toronto Star's contest was a 41 pounder hooked in Brighton.

September is Big Brother Month

You may have read several articles on Big Brothers and Big Sisters over the past few months. Their recent publicity campaign has been extremely successful, with 10 applications on hand. Six Big Sisters and four Big Brothers.

If all the applications, are successful they will be in an unusual position for the first time in many years. They will have more Bigs in some areas than we have Littles. They also know as soon as the schools resume in September they will be in a position to get applications for littles but in the meantime if you know of any child who may benefit from their service please contact their offices at 473-4247.

Applications from girls between the ages of six and sixteen, from Madoc and Tweed will be accepted in the following weeks. All other areas are, as usual, too many children, not enough adults.

In recognition of Big Brother month is September, the Centre Hastings Big Brothers and Sisters have planned extra activities to raise community awareness regarding this organization run solely by volunteers and funds either donated or raised through special events.

ANNUAL ROAST BEEF DINNER

A roast beef dinner sponsored by the Big Brothers/ Sisters organization will be held Saturday, September 24th at the Madoc Fair. If you have been before you KNOW how good it is.

CAR RALLY

A car rally commencing at the IGA in Stirling and finishing at Vanderwater Park, Thomasburg, is scheduled for September 11th. Starting time is 10 a.m.

This is not a race it is more like a scavenger hunt on wheels.

There will be free hot dogs and a game of baseball, they do make up their own rules however.

To enter you must have a child between the ages of six and sixteen who, with a little help, will be in charge of navigating.

The charge is $10. A trophy will be given to the driver and navigator of the winning car and 2nd and 3rd also receive a prize. To register dial the number listed above.

BALLOON LAUNCH RESULTS

An exhibit at the Madoc Fair for Big Brothers/Sisters will also display the name of the balloon launch winner. So far, the longest distance for a balloon to travel has been Albertsville, New York State. They may get a few lables back yet, Englands not that far.

CLASSIFIEDS are for everyone!

Madoc OPP report that sometime during the evening of Wednesday, Apr. 13th, 1988, a cabin at RR 4 was broken into and several items were stolen. The cabin is situated at Lot 30 Con. 8, Hungerford Township and is approximately four miles east of the Stoco Golf Course.

The thieves gained access to the cabin by breaking into a wooden door on the east side of the cabin. Once inside, they took several items ranging from butcher knives to arrows. They also made off with a propane barbecue, complete with tank, as well as another 40 lb. propane tank with the word 'Fox' on same. Woolen blankets, cutlery, Coleman lanterns, a portable AM/FM radio, as well as a large quantity of assorted ammunition, chest waders, nails and hammers were also taken.

Due to the amount of items taken and the area of the occurrence, it is obvious that the thieves utilized some form of transportation. A complete list of the stolen property is on file at Quinte Crime Stoppers. The total value of the stolen property is over $1000.

If you have information regarding the identity of the persons responsible or if you know who is receiving this stolen property, Quinte Crime Stoppers would like to hear from you.

Crime Stoppers offers a cash reward up to $1000 for information leading to an arrest in this crime or any other unsolved case. If you have any information, call Crime Stoppers at 969-8477 or 1-800-267-4357. Callers will not be required to reveal their identity nor testify in court.

Watch for a re-enactment of the "Crime of the Month" on Cable 4 TV Belleville, at the following times: Mon. 8:30 p.m./ Tues. 7:30 p.m./ Wed. 8 p.m./ Thurs. 8 p.m. and Sun. 5:30 p.m.

and how families can use them to thrive in today's challenging world.

win co-operation.

O.P.P. REPORT

On Thursday, Aug. 18, 1988, at approximately 5:30 a.m., officers from Madoc detachment of the OPP took 78-year-old Andrey Hromov of RR 2, Marmora, into custody following an alleged shooting incident west of Marmora.

At the time of his arrest Hromov was armed with a starter pistol. Hromov is currently undergoing psychiatric treatment at Belleville General Hospital.

There were no injuries in the occurrence and investigation by Madoc Officers is continuing.

Trailer Fire

Police and firefighters attended at Campkins Camp Inn on Quin Mo Lac Rd. in response to a trailer fire.

A trailer, owned by 51-year-old Walter Thompson of Pickering, Ontario, was totally destroyed by the fire.

Thompson was awakened by smoke and flames and managed to escape the trailer. There were no injuries and the cause of the fire is still under investigation.

at the front of Stedman's Store on Durham St., in Madoc. The window was smashed during the early morning hours of August 20, 1988.

Liquor Licence Act Violations and Impaired Operation of Vessels

While the average person may think twice before drinking and driving, they should also do the same when operating a vessel. The Criminal Code does not differentiate between a vehicle, aircraft or vessel.

Reports of fatal boating accidents indicate approximately 42% of victims had been drinking and 74% of those were legally impaired.

Possession of liquor in Ontario is permitted in a residence and for a boat to be considered a residence, it must have normal facilities associated with a residence (beds, lavatories, cooking facilities, etc.) and must be in use as a residence and must not be under way (it must be docked, moored or anchored).

Remember drinking and driving don't mix. OPP have boats used for patrolling area lakes.

Damage to Store

Madoc OPP are investigating the smashing of the window

Displayed in the window of Wilson's Art Supplies of Madoc are three prizes donated for a draw being hosted by the Madoc Historical Foundation. The tickets are $1 each and the winner will be drawn at the Foundation's booth at the Madoc Fair. First prize is a coffee table donated by Cooper's Country Classics, second prize is a hand braided rug donated by Sheila Gaber and third prize is a collectors plate donated by designer Willy Schiffers. Tickets for the draw can be obtained at Wilson's Art Supplies, Whiskers and Madoc's Old Bake Shop.

Students help seniors and themselves

Kelly Williams of Tweed has spent this past summer working with the seniors of the Centre Hastings Retraining Centre which is located next door to this paper.

Every year, according to Lyn Lee, co-ordinator of the seniors program, they like to hire a student through the hire-a-student program funded by the government.

Each year it is someone different thus giving equal opportunity to those students wishing to pursue a career in the social services network. Kelly begins classes in September at Loyalist College, working towards a diploma as a developmental service worker. During last years school year, through the Co-op program at CHSS, Kelly worked across the street at the Retraining Centre. This on the job experience will assist her in her future career endeavors.

Next year it will be someone else's turn. Anyone interested should watch for ads requiring a student for this program next summer.

Kelly's duties, this year, included a trip to Trudeau Park for a swim every Friday, Wednesday's were excursion days, she assisted the seniors with their garden, and enjoyed various other activities such as painting.

It's a full-time job, five days a week for seventeen weeks during the summer holidays. All applicants must be returning to school.

DROP THE KIDS OFF

Lyn and Kelly were unsuccessful at beginning a drop-in centre for kids. What they wanted to do was supply a place for busy parents to leave their kids while they were getting their hair done or making a trip to the doctors, etc. Anyone interested in utilizing this service which is operational daily from 9 to 3 should contact the seniors program at 473-4807.

Kelly Williams, through the Student Employment Centre, has spent this past summer working with the Retraining Centre's Seniors Program. Here Kelly assists seniors Wilmer Norkett (foreground) and Lorne Ostrom with their gardening techniques in the seniors garden which is located on Nelson Street. Someone will be needed to takeover where Kelly left off, next year.

The groom is the son of David and Wanda Franks of R.R. 2, Madoc.

Flower girls were Amber Smith and Jenny Foran.

Ring bearers were Dustin Elson and Travis Holmes.

A dinner and dance reception followed at the Madoc Township Hall.

After a wedding trip to Lake Placid, N.Y., the couple has taken up residence at 33 Baldwin St., Madoc.

Trinity United Church, Madoc was the setting for the June 11, 1988 wedding of Kathryn Marie Pelletier of 33 Baldwin St. Madoc and David Michael Franks of R.R. 2, Madoc. Rev. Jeff de Jonge officiated at the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father Maurice Pelletier.

The bride is the daughter of Carolyn Reid of 27 Nelson St., Madoc and Maurice Pelletier of 243 Lillian Cr., Barrie.

Historic vault unveiled

Terry Pigden, of Pigden's Electronics, says that probably the vault was concealed by paint and virtually been ignored since the J. C. Dale Bank of Madoc went bankrupt in 1914.

The lady credited with it's remarkable restoration is Valerie Stire, locally known for her artistry. Using a razor blade to remove the unwanted paint covering the doors wording, it took Valerie 3 weeks to finalize her project.

Installed by J. & J. Taylor of Toronto Safe Works back when the bank first opened, Terry Pigden believes that maybe this Taylor is part of the current vault distributors, out of Toronto, by the name of Chubb, Mosler and Taylor.

The Madoc Review tried to contact Chubb's head office for possible confirmation, but their number is unlisted.

ANYONE REMEMBER THE DALE BANK OF MADOC

James C. Dale was born June 7, 1851 in Kingston. He took up residence in Madoc early in his life, leaving when the bank closed, and moving to Victoria, B.C., where he died in 1934. He was brought home to Madoc to be buried in the Lakeview Cemetery.

The 'Madoc Banking House' changed to the 'J. C. Dale & Co. Bankers' on July 1, 1891. This institution was formed with four partners, they were messrs. J. D. Dale, J. Caskey, Duncan McBeath and Duncan McKenzie. James Dale held 20 shares, while the other three each held a smaller number of shares.

In March of 1883 J. C. Dale & Co. Bankers' moved to their new location on the east side of Durham Street, which now houses the vault and Pigden Electronics.

This institution carried on the banking business for twenty years very successfully.

The reason for the bankruptcy is recorded as being due to the fact that the four partners had invested too heavily in the real estate market.

The Historical Foundation of Madoc, Tuesday evening, organized a surprise unveiling of a vault, pictured above, which is located on the premises of Pigden Electronics. It belonged to the J. C. Dale bank which went bankrupt in 1914. The Pigden family knew that the door was the entrance into a vault but, since it had been covered with at least 3 coats of paint, were unsure of who it's original owner had been. The Pigden's realizing the treasure they had recently discovered, decided to restore the vaults exterior, regaining once again, it's original splendor of 1914.

Youth Centre

Madoc Review solicits

Madoc's youth

Mark Curtis and Ben Jorgensen, both residents of Madoc, are seeking public support, along with public assistance, in regards to the establishment of a Youth Centre in Madoc.

Currently, according to Mark and Ben, local youths without a drivers licence, possibly because they're too young to drive, or those unable to enter local taverns, find that they have nothing to do, thus, leaving them to occupy village streets.

Remembering his adolescence in Madoc, Ben

Jorgensen says that at that time there was "no place for me to go and now there is still not much to do if you're young".

The proposed Youth Centre would be responsible for organizing dances and other activities both inside and outside of the Centre.

These two men, before seeking government funding, would like verbal support from either concerned parents, council or local merchants.

Mark Curtis is the person to call and he can be reached after 6 p.m. by dialing 473-2977.

LEASING WITH AN OPTION TO BUY

Over the past few weeks we have been examining the live-in phenomenon. Today, in our last article on this subject, we will present a case for the importance of marriage.

To start on a shocking note, formalized marriages do not insure lasting marriages. Lasting marriages are developed in a covenantal spirit of loyalty. When husbands and wives submit their lives to God, lasting marriages result. This idea of a covenant is the first important reason for marriage.

A marriage ceremony should be a covenant between three parties. The husband and wife constitute two parties; God being the third party. Before God, and in the presence of witnesses, man and woman covenant to be faithful to each other. Such a covenant, when properly maintained, will insure a lasting marriage. The writer of Ecclesiastes was inspired when he wrote, "A cord of three strands is not quickly broken." (Ecc. 4:12)

Secondly, such a public covenant was sanctioned by Jesus Christ's presence at the wedding in Cana. Conversely true, the Samaritan woman at the well, and her relationship with her common-law partner was not sanctioned by Jesus. If we believe these incidents from Jesus' life, we must believe the Jesus stands for a marriage covenant and not for a common-law relationship.

From the beginning of time, it was ordained that a man and woman would come together and become one flesh. Such a union was established during a public ceremony. Today, wherever you turn in the world, you can see race after race engaging in marriage via a public covenantal service.

Thirdly, marriage provides easy access for a new couple into community life. Announcements can be made and the couple publicly accepted as a family unit in the community. To opt to waive marriage for a live-in relationship is to short-circuit your acceptance into community life. Without doubt, marriage is a rite of passage into our society.

Finally, marriage fulfills the law of God. Living together violates the law of God. This violation is easily understood when we study the meaning of the word 'fornication'.

In specific, fornication means to engage in sexual relationships before marriage. In a broader sense, fornication includes adultery. Adultery is the encroachment and involvement of a third party with a married person. Casual sex before marriage and living together unmarried both fall into the category of fornication.

The scriptures speak multi-

tures about fornication. "For this is the will of God, even your sanctification, that ye abstain from fornication; that everyone of you should know how to possess his vessel in sanctification and honour; not in the lust of concupiscence (sexual desire)..." (1 Thess. 4:3-5) "Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor adulterers, shall inherit the kingdom of God." (1 Cor. 6:9-10)

Praise the Lord that God can restore disorder to order. God can take any twisted relationship and straighten it out. He can forge something good for you, if you let Him.

GRADUATION

son of Bill and Mary Nayler, Madoc, graduated on the Dean's Honor Roll from Trent University on June 3rd with an Honors B.A. in History. Peter plans to continue at University of Waterloo in the Masters Public History Co-op program.

The forest for the trees

by Marion Strebig - For the Federation of Ontario Naturalists.

Ontario forests provide 150,000 jobs in company head offices and in the woods, as well as products which everyone uses daily. But are the forests being cared for so that in 30 or 40 years there will still be jobs in the forest industry and sufficient wood supply for our needs?

For decades Ontario forestry was a cut run operation. Prime timber was removed and the area was left to nature. Only the introduction of mechanized equipment capable of cutting great swaths through the forest forced the realization that, if cutting practices were maintained, some kind of regeneration would be necessary. It was not until the early 60's that legislation was introduced to "permit" companies to sign regeneration agreements. Since tending the seedlings was not part of the agreement, these arrangements were not a great success. The results of this attitude confront anyone fishing or canoeing along northern rivers.

In 1972 after Premier Davis vowed to plant 2 trees for every one cut, the Provincial Government approved the first targets for forest production and regeneration. In 1980 the first Forest Management Agreements (FMA's) were signed. Under the terms of the FMA's the companies were to take responsibility for regeneration, although the seedlings were to be provided through the Ministry of Natural Resources. Progress is being made. Although last year over 60% of Crown Land cut over was regenerated, this still leaves a big gap.

Panel four of the Class

Environmental Assessment for Timber Management on Crown Lands in Ontario which is going on right now in Thunder Bay has been focusing on the issue of regeneration. All Ministry projections for the future are based, not on present realities of inadequate and patchy regeneration, but on the optimistic view of a regeneration rate 30% higher than at present. In its calculations the MNR has failed to allow for a drop in annual growth as a consequence of acid precipitation. Even taking into account the predicted increase in regeneration, Mr. Armon, Provincial Forester, estimates that pulp and paper mills will run out of wood in 75 years.

In spite of this long history of silvicultural neglect and dire predictions of future shortage, the MNR has cut its budget for silvicultural programs. Seedling growers with Ministry supply contracts face cuts in quotas for 1989 which may be as high as 7,000,000. This year, after several seasons of poor yields, the growers have produced a bumper crop of seedlings, but the Ministry of Natural Resources has no budget to buy them. Although planned regeneration targets have not been met in the past, the Ministry is unable to take advantage of this chance to close the gap. Growers estimate that with next year's quota cuts the industry will fall 20,000,000 trees behind in the reforestation goals set when the FMA's were signed.

In theory the growers can sell this year's surplus privately; in fact, the Ministry provides the only market, a subsidized one, and without the government subsidy companies have refused to buy the surplus. Perhaps the time has come for the forest product companies to take more direct responsibility for future wood supply on the Crown Land to which, under the FMA's, they have exclusive timber rights for 20 years with an option for renewal.

Forests for Tomorrow, a coalition of conservation groups in which the Federation of Ontario Naturalists plays a major role, is present at the Class E.A. hearings in Thunder Bay to raise questions about the way forests on Crown Land have traditionally been managed. Are the Ministry and the companies sufficiently concerned about the quality and quantity of regeneration? Under present MNR sanctioned practices are our forests being managed in a way which promotes their long-term health, and uses other than as a source of commercial fibre? Is the Ministry giving sufficient consideration to protection of wildlife habitat and to the forest's role as a soil and climate stabilizer?

Are FMA's which grant companies exclusive rights to Crown Land Forests and provide Government subsidies for logging roads and regeneration really in the best interests of Ontario's forests and taxpayers?

Cembal Publications golf tournament

...ds, Willie McGee, the winner of Golf Tournament the trophy. Mr. McGee is originally from ...sides in Peterborough.

by Brian Carruthers
 The morning saw the clouds open up and the rains poured down. This was nothing new for the Cembal Publications Golf Tournament. It usually rains on the day of the tourney. This is the third straight rainy golf tournament that Joe Cembal, owner of Cembal Publication which includes this paper, has held. The joke was that maybe Joe should hold more than one tournament a year. Every time we have a dry spell he should encourage the area farmers to pay him to have a golf tournament just so they can get some rain.
 But, as noon approached the skies cleared and it looked as though the tournament would go on without a hitch. Then just as the second last group teed off the skies opened up again. This time the rain lasted for about 45 minutes then it cleared for the rest of the event and made all the participants, if not totally dry atleast happy.

 The eventual winner was Willie McGee of Carl Oake Real Estate, with a low gross of 88. In second place was Ed Stevenson of Arnold Real Estate in Madoc with a 93.
 The low net score went to Bob Milne of Holiday Ford as he ended up with a 65. Second low net went to Eric Dunford of Dunford Sales and Service with a 69.
 A most unusual event took place as Dave Roberts, the sales rep for the Courier, managed to sink a hole-in-one.

Because a hearing impairment is one of those "unseen" disabilities, it can be hard to live with. No one knows you have a disability unless you tell them and they often are not geared to you and your impairment.

The closest most of us are lucky enough to come to hearing impairment is when we read the line on our TV sets, "Closed captioned for the hearing impaired". In case you wondered, with a special decoder a hearing impaired person can read a line of text running under the picture.

When you first find yourself straining to hear or someone has to say something to you twice or even three times so that you can understand what is being said, chances are you've got a hearing problem.

The first step is to have your doctor check your ears. Sometimes an accumulation of wax can impair hearing and relief is as simple as cleaning them. If the problem isn't solved, you should go and visit The Canadian Hearing Society (CHS).

But, first, you have to want to do something about your hearing problem. There's no sense in going through all the testing and fitting if you are going to put your hearing aid away in a drawer. And, there's no sense in a relative trying to talk a loved one into a hearing aid if the person with the hearing loss doesn't really think he needs it.

Hearing aids cost money! They take patience and care to use and an excuse can soon be found not to wear it, if the person with the hearing loss isn't convinced that there is a problem.

The impaired person will slowly shut people out of their life. Families and friends get tired of repeating and yelling and they can't be bothered with them in conversations, and they are sort of pushed into the background.

The whole way of life gets smaller for the hearing impaired person who refuses help and we all know that being a part of things is what keeps us all going.

Appointments will be made to have your hearing tested with an ear, nose and throat specialist and then an audiologist. It is up to you which route you go.

Also, let it be known to people to speak slowly and more distinctly. Ask people who are speaking not to chew gum like an old cow or have cigarettes in their mouth. Tell them to be more flexible like moving hand, face, eyes and whatever means they can get the message across to you.

A letter or a phone call will tell you all about flashing alarms and visuals. Communication is the major goal - not perfect hearing.

The Canadian Journal of the Deaf, is a new publication which focuses on issues affecting deaf Canadians. It is published four times annually in both English and French. The Association also publishes a monthly newspaper called the Deaf Canadian Advocate.

For $10 per year, both are available from: Canadian Association of the Deaf, 311-271 Spadina Road, Toronto, Ont. M5R 2V3.

Everyone is entitled to understanding and respect, understanding for the difficulties that beset you, and respect for your efforts.

You can adjust to the limitations imposed upon you, it is up to you and no one else. Above all things, if you want to be accepted, you must first accept yourself. Self-understanding is the start of wisdom.

CARLETON GETS AN 'A' FOR ACCESSIBILITY

Disabled students at Ottawa's Carleton University have better access to campus life, thanks to a new attendant care service.

Carleton already had accessible tunnels connecting the campus, ramps, special elevators and the MacOdrum Library's Visualtek (a reading aid for visually impaired persons).

Now, it is the first Canadian university to operate a 24-hour attendant care service for its disabled students.

Recently, Ontario's Minister

Responsible for Disabled Persons, Remo Mancini, was at the university to tour the facilities. With him were Ontario Legislature members Hans Daigeler (Nepean), Yvonne O'Neill (Ottawa-Rideau), Dalton McGuinty (Ottawa South) and Bob Chiarelli (Ottawa West).

"It is reassuring to know this service will remove one of the major barriers to education for disabled persons. By providing this service, Carleton has ensured disabled students will receive the care they need, when they need it," said Mr. Mancini.

This year, Carleton University received the Minister's award of excellence, as part of the Ontario Office for Disabled Persons' Premier Awards for Accessibility, for its innovative and comprehensive support program for disabled students.

"To date, this is the only university-based care service that I know of. Most universities have no service at all," said Larry McCloskey, Carleton's co-ordinator for disabled students.

The Ontario Ministry of Community and Social Services granted $65,000 to Carleton University, last year, to expand the hours of its attendant care service. Prior to this, the service was only available in the morning and evening. By this fall, a total of 10 students will benefit from the expanded care service when the provincial grant increases to almost $100,000.

HINT OF THE WEEK:
Many people find it difficult to put drops into their own eyes and become dependent on others to do it for them. To do it yourself, try this:

Get a pair of cheap, dark plastic sunglasses and drill a hole in each lens. The hole should be large enough to allow only the tip of the eyedropper to fit snugly into it.

Clean the lenses thoroughly after drilling. Now, the with the glasses on, tip your head far back or lie down, fit the eyedropper to the hold and squeeze.

There should be no missing because of a shaky hand, no blinking and no danger of the dropper poking the eyes. To position the hole properly, with the glasses on, mark the lens directly in front of the pupil of your eye. Drill the hole 2mm closer to the nose than your original mark so the drop will fall slightly off centre of your eyeball. (felt pen or nail polish can be used to mark on plastic).

MORE ABLED THAN DISABLED CLUB

Mark this on your calendar for More Abled Than Disabled meeting on Monday, Sept. 12th, 7:30 p.m. at the Community Care, 44 Front St. N., Campbellford.

Hoping to see you there!

netting study on Canal Lake and confirmed that pike were well established. Immediately, netting was shifted to Mitchell Lake, the next lake upstream, to determine if pike had invaded it as well.

The Kirkfield Liftlock presents a formidable but not impossible barrier to the movement of pike from Canal to Mitchell Lake.

This netting in Mitchell Lake did not catch any pike. Although a good sign, this cannot be considered conclusive and further studies on Mitchell are planned.

the Ministry of Natural Resources in Lindsay at (705) 324-6121 or Zenith 73000.

Pike or any other species should never be released into another body of water. This is illegal and could have serious negative results on existing fish stocks.

The Ministry of Natural Resources wants to prevent the further spread of northern pike in the Kawartha Lakes. If pike reach Mitchell Lake they will be at the top of the Kawartha Lakes chain and could invade the downstream lakes quickly.

by Dave Maraldo

There have been persistent reports of finding northern pike in Canal Lake in Victoria County. This is cause for concern since northern pike have not been found in the Kawartha Lakes.

Biologists believe one of the reasons the Kawartha Lakes maintain excellent muskellunge populations is because there are no pike. When pike invade new waters they can seriously affect existing fish stocks, particularly muskellunge.

Ontario forests provide 150,000 jobs in company head offices and in the woods, as well as products which everyone of us uses daily. But are the forests being cared for so that in 30 or 40 years there will still be jobs in the forest industry and sufficient wood supply for our needs?

For decades, Ontario forestry was a cut and run operation. Prime timber was removed and the area was left to nature. Only the introduction of mechanized equipment, capable of cutting great swaths through the forest forced the realization that, if cutting practices were maintained, some kind of regeneration would be necessary.

It was not until the early 60's that legislation was introduced to "permit" companies to sign regeneration agreements. Since tending the seedlings was not part of the agreement, these arrangements were not a great success.

The results of this attitude confront anyone fishing or canoeing along northern rivers.

In 1972, after Premier Davis vowed to plant two trees for everyone cut, the Provincial Government approved the first targets for forest production and regeneration.

In 1980, the first Forest Management Agreements (FMAs) were signed. Under the terms of the FMAs the companies were to take responsibility for regeneration, although the seedlings were to be provided through the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Progress is being made. Although, last year, over 60% of Crown Land cut over was regenerated, this still leaves a big gap.

Panel four, of the Class

Environmental Assessment for Timber Management on Crown Lands in Ontario, which is going on right now in Thunder Bay, has been focussing on the issue of regeneration.

All Ministry projections for the future are based, not on present realities of inadequate and patchy regeneration, but on the optimistic view of a regeneration rate, 30% higher than at present.

In its calculations, the MNR has failed to allow for a drop in annual growth as a consequence of acid precipitation. Even taking into account the predicted increase in regeneration, Mr. Armonson, Provincial Forester, estimates that pulp and paper mills will run out of wood in 75 years.

In spite of this long history of silvicultural neglect and dire predictions of future shortage, the MNR has cut its budget for silvicultural programs. Seedling growers with Ministry supply contracts face cuts in quotas for 1989, which may be as high as 7-million.

This year, after several seasons of poor yields, the growers have produced a bumper crop of seedlings, but the Ministry of Natural Resources has no budget to buy them.

Although planned regeneration targets have not been met in the past, the Ministry is unable to take advantage of this chance to close the gap. Growers estimate that with next year's quota cuts the industry will fall 20-million trees behind in the reforestation goals set when the FMAs were signed.

In theory, the growers can sell this year's surplus privately; in fact, the Ministry provides the only market, a subsidized one, and without the Government subsidy, companies have refused to buy the surplus.

Perhaps the time has come for the forest product companies to take more direct responsibility for future wood supply on the Crown Land to which, under the FMAs, they have exclusive timber rights for 20 years with an option for renewal.

Forests for Tomorrow, a coalition of conservation groups in which the Federation of Ontario Naturalists plays a major role, is present at the Class EA hearings in Thunder Bay to raise questions about the way forests on Crown land have traditionally been managed.

Are the Ministry and the companies sufficiently concerned about the quality and quantity of regeneration? Under present MNR sanctioned practices are our forests being managed in a way which promotes their long-term health, and uses other than as a source of commercial fibre? Is the Ministry giving sufficient consideration to protection of wildlife habitat and to the forest's role as a soil and climate stabilizer?

Are FMAs which grant companies exclusive rights to Crown Land Forests and provide Government subsidies for logging roads and regeneration really in the best interests of Ontario's forests and taxpayers?

photochemical smog have been recorded in many other cities, including Denver, Houston and now Toronto.

Research going back to the 1950s has shown conclusively that car and truck exhaust is a primary contributor to photochemical smog.

In an attempt to control photochemical smog, California has become a leader in North America in pressing for emission controls on cars. The success of this program over almost 20 years is reflected in the smaller number of occurrences of severe episodes of photochemical smog over cities such as Los Angeles.

Photochemical smog is characterized by reduced visibility, a yellow-brown haze and the presence of irritating substances in the atmosphere. Two of the most significant of these are ozone and peroacetyl nitrate (PAN for short).

Both these compounds are highly toxic to plants and animals including people.

At levels less than a part per million in the atmosphere, they stunt plant growth, causing millions of dollars worth of damage in reduced crop yields. These same levels cause eye-watering and shortness of breath in people, can be hazardous to the elderly and those with respiratory problems like emphysema.

It should be noted that ozone is a valuable component of the upper atmosphere, protecting life from the ultraviolet rays of the sun. In the unpolluted lower atmosphere, it is normally present only at extremely low levels; at higher-than-normal levels, such as a part per million, it is a pollutant because of its toxicity.

Four elements must be present for the development of photochemical smog - hydrocarbons - nitrogen oxides, sunlight and an air temperature of at least 18 deg. C.

Car exhaust is almost always the major source of the first two elements; the last two make it obvious why photochemical smog is only a problem in warm, sunny weather.

Lack of a breeze to blow the pollutants away also tends to prevent the air from mixing, also exacerbate the problem.

The chemical reactions occurring in photochemical smog are complex. Actually, these reactions are the means by which the polluted atmosphere cleans itself. They go on all the time, even in clean air. They only become a problem when the levels of hydrocarbons and nitrogen oxides are unusually high, as in cities where there is a lot of traffic.

Hydrocarbons are unburned fuel resulting from incomplete combustion; nitrogen oxides are formed in small amounts whenever air is heated to a high temperature, as occurs during combustion.

Let's examine the essentials of this complicated chemistry. First, the role of the nitrogen oxides. One of these - nitrogen dioxide - is brown. It causes the color of the smog and absorbs sunlight. A light-driven, photochemical reaction leads to the formation of ozone.

Ozone absorbs ultraviolet light, and as a result of a second photochemical reaction, a chemical called the hydroxyl radical is formed. The hydroxyl radical is the real cleaning agent in the dirty atmosphere - it gets rid of the hydrocarbons in the atmosphere by reacting with them.

Most of the hydrocarbons are converted into harmless carbon dioxide and water, but a few are converted to a side product - the toxic PAN. Eventually, PAN also gets destroyed, but it can persist in the atmosphere for a long time.

Because air pollution is a primary prerequisite for photochemical smog, it is urban rather than rural areas that face the greatest problem. The sunlight requirement means that the problem is worst near midday, when the sun is most intense.

Temperature plays an important role in speeding up the reactions by which the hydrocarbons are changed to carbon dioxide and water, and also in recycling the pool of nitrogen oxides. Other things being equal, the hotter the day the worse the problem.

Economically, the most significant effect of photochemical smog is the lost production on crop lands that are within a few hundred kilometres of large urban centres. Perhaps, we should ask our friends in Toronto leave the car at home and take the subway, especially in the summer.

We welcome questions and ideas for future columns. Write to the authors, c/o the Dean's Office, College of Physical Science, University of Guelph, Guelph, Ont. N1G 2W1.

Crown land as a development tool

by Jim Paterson Lands/Waters Administrator

A new initiative of the Ontario government has been established to make Crown land more readily available to the public and private sector for development opportunities.

The intent of the program is to stimulate job and investment opportunities and create economic growth through appropriate forms of development.

Although the focus of the program is upon northern Ontario, the philosophy of using Crown land as a tool for economic development applies province wide.

At the present time, six primary development areas have been designated across the province. These areas include Ear Falls, Ignace, Atikokan, Wawa, the Detour Lake Abitibi Corridor and Whitney. These areas will be investigated for development opportunities and investment.

Some of the development plans, which the Ministry has received and reviewed, include: cottaging, small hydro electric facilities, aquaculture, peat and water based, tourism and recreation plans.

While this Ministry is examining these land uses, it is fully expected that other ideas will come forward for review.

Norwood claims PeeWee title

Welcome home, Brooke! Members of the Norwood Pee Wees begin their celebration as Brooke McArthur crosses homeplate after smashing the game winning homerun in the bottom of the seventh inning. After four hours, it was certainly about time to let the excitement boil over. Both Madoc and Norwood put on a tremendous exhibition of never-say-die softball. It was a shame that one team had to win.

Do or die in Havelock: The Central Hastings Minor Pee Wee Softball league championship was held last Saturday in Havelock with teams from Marmora, Norwood, Madoc, Campbellford, Springbrook and Eldorado taking part. A 4-H show 100 years removed:
The Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food is celebrating 100 years of government service to the farmers of Ontario and last Sunday at Lang Century Village there was an Agricultural Festival that featured a wide-ranging program of events including this recreation of a 19th Century 4-H Goat Show. Along with the musical group Tanglefoot and the Peterborough County Junior Farmer's Square Dancing group the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Dr. George Collin, presented Peterborough's Helen Shaw with a Centennial Award -- the only one to be presented in the county. The Deputy Minister also presented Lang with historical documents relating to the life of C. Arthur Brethen of Norwood -- the only Peterborough County agriculturalist elected to the Agricultural Hall of Fame in Milton. The OMAF also presented ten Volunteer Recognition Certificates to deserving individuals, organizations and businesses including one to Norwood Fair President, Robert Stockdale. Also receiving awards were: Alpha laval, Mrs. Mary Elmhirst.

Do You Want To Be Dumped On?

by Janice Pinke

Fourteen municipalities will utilize the new dump site when a location is established by the Centre and South Hastings County Waste Management Steering Committee.

The four proposed sites to be explored as to their dump capabilities include Madoc, Marmora and two sites in Rawdon Township. They will investigate Madoc's current dump site examining the possibility of it being expanded, thus, to be possibly used by the fourteen municipalities for the next 20 years.

According to Bonnie Jones of the Huntingdon Township offices the idea that 14 municipalities will be utilizing the proposed dump is currently unfounded although not impossible. These municipalities have shown that they are interested and all municipalities will be working together as a unit, hopefully achieving a solution regarding the disposal of waste.

Proposed solutions being examined by the Waste Management Committee include incineration (energy from waste), landfilling and recycling. The Dornier plant in Trenton is being considered for a project that would involve the establishment of an incinerator on property next door to their plant, thus, the incinerator being used to supply the plants needed energy.

Leigh Caldwell, a Pitts Landing resident and a member of the Public Advisory Committee representing Huntingdon Township told the Madoc Review that she "doesn't think the residents of Madoc understand the seriousness of this proposal". "It would mean that garbage would be trucked in from these municipalities ousness of what is going on? Do you want to be dumped on?

Madoc, Madoc Township and Huntingdon Township, now all have representatives sitting on the Public Advisory Commitities as a future landfill site. This study was in response to diminishing space at their existing landfill sites, which although not full, are reaching capacity.

The results of from the study management consultants, were hired to develop a waste management master plan in December 1985 which would be acceptable to both the Ministry of the Environment and those municipalities affected.

Their job: to describe and evaluate waste management options which are technically, environmentally, economically, culturally and socially acceptable for implementation in an area-wide system for the twenty year planning horizon.

through Madoc". "Heavy garbage trucks full of waste".

DO YOU REALIZE SERIOUSNESS

Meetings were held by each municipality requesting the public assistance obtaining representatives to sit on a Public Advisory Committee regarding the establishment of a new dump site. No one turned out for the Village of Madoc and only two persons turned out at the Huntingdon Township meeting.

These numbers obviously raise the question whether everyone is aware of the seritee. These people graciously volunteered their time and can be reached through their municipal offices or their phone numbers are listed in the telephone book. They welcome any concerns or questions you may have.

DUMP HISTORY

In 1984 the Township of Huntingdon, Elzevir and Grimsthorpe, Madoc and the Villages of Madoc and Tweed hired a waste management consultant to carry out a study to determine the suitability of a property (part lot 9 and 10, Conc. 7, Huntingdon Township) to serve these municipal-regarding this property led to the conclusion that this potential site was not suitable for landfill.

PUBLIC ADVISORY COMMITTEE PLANS MEETING

The Public Advisory Committee has scheduled their first meeting to discuss their position regarding the proposed dump sites at the Huntingdon Township Municipal offices, September 6th, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Eleven of the fourteen municipalities are currently being represented on this committee.

Bus to begin September 6

According to George Frantz, one of the co-ordinators for the new bus service to Belleville, all systems are go and the bus service will begin September 6th, probably leaving the Kramp's Restaurant at 7:15 a.m. No further details were available at press time. For route schedule and departure times contact George Frantz at 473-2218.

Lumberjack contest at this year's Madoc Fair

For the first time in the history of the Madoc Fair a Lumberjack Competition is to be featured this year on Sunday, September 25th at 1:30 p.m.

A sophisticated version of a lumberjack competition can be witnessed yearly at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

John Hastings, First Vice-President of the Madoc Fair, said that Madoc's version of the lumberjack competition will be based on "how fast participants can cut through logs 10 inches by 10 inches in size". All but one class is required to make three consecutive cuts through the log as quickly as possible, the fastest time wins.

Professional lumberjacks, largely from eastern Ontario, will represent the core of the contest, although anyone wishing to participate in the contest is welcome to enter either the amateur or professional classes, but not both and according to John Hastings there is "nothing to say that their can't be woman involved (in the competition)".

The one class different to the others, is the "Super 7" in which 7 cuts are required through a log possibly 12 inches by 12 inches in size.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Skeptic criticized

Dear Editor,

I was reading the "The Letter to the Editor - Psychic skeptic."

I can quite understand why they don't believe in many things. I don't know how the "Committed for the Scientific investigation of Claims of the Paranormal" find their way out of bed each day.

I am offended by the "A Skeptic", who can't even be open and up front enough to give his or her name, putting Iridology in the same breath and category as Palm Reading, Tarot Cards etc.

Obviously these skeptics don't know anatomy. If they did, they would know the eyes are through nerves, registering what is going on in the body unless a person is under anaesthetic.

Iridology has been used in the health field in Europe, Canada & U.S.A. by prominent physicians for years.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Hail, Hail

Dear Editor,

All hail those readers who MAKE the time to write their views to the Editor.

In these busy years it is doubtful that there are any who "have nothing better to do with their time".

Peggy Reid
Madoc

Editor's Note: This letter was in response to a letter to the editor from "A proud resident" in which the resident wrote, "Do the FEW residents of this community, who are criticizing our new Village flag, along with it's artist, Peter Hickey, actually have nothing better to do with their time?"

Somebody, obviously just finishing their McDonald's eats, decided to use St. Lawrence West as their way of disposing of their garbage. Larciness has been deemed the cause of this incident, really now.

Mr. and Mrs. Cadwell of the Lester B. Pearson Village of Madoc, presented this book of Quotations, written by John Colombo, to me, your editor, in recognition of work accomplished. The book is published by Hurtig Publishers, who is also responsible for printing a Canadian Encyclopedia, apparently the only one in existence.

AIDS Scare

by Janice Pinke

Speculation within the Village of Madoc that a resident has been diagnosed as having AIDS will remain speculation according to Judith Hawkey of the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit. The Madoc Review contacted the Health Unit for confirmation regarding hearsay circulating throughout Madoc that a resident has AIDS. I should stress that the Madoc Review was not looking for the persons identity, just confirmation.

What she could tell me however, is that within Hastings and Prince Edward Counties there are two confirmed cases of AIDS and twelve cases testing HIV positive. Those numbers however only reflect those known to the Health Unit. Judith says that there are then those who have not been tested and don't know they are carriers and then there are those who may have moved into the area from other areas such as Toronto or Ottawa. Two known cases who moved into our counties have now again moved away.

Judith stresses that these "people are dying" and they need our "support". We don't want to scare the people in these communities. AIDS victims pose no threat socially. It actually works opposite for them, because they must stay away from others with viruses, such as a cold or the flu, because of the breakdown in their immune systems.

Confidentiality regarding those persons with AIDS anywhere, not only here, is always practiced. The Health Unit will not target any area where an AIDS patient resides, especially small communities, because people would start wondering who they are".

AIDS EDUCATION

Judith Hawkey also stresses that "we do not have a higher rate than other counties across Canada". A lot of people adopt the idea that it will never happen to me. People shouldn't become complacent - they should however, practice safe sex.

EPIDEMIC PROPORTIONS

AIDS education is now mandatory in schools at the grade seven level.

Educating you here further threw the press please find that there are three stages connected with AIDS.

The first being HIV, Positive meaning that you have been in contact with the virus; it could take anywhere up to 10 years before any symptoms appear.

The second, HIV infection with symptoms. Symptoms include fatigue, persistent diarrhea, unexplained weight loss, enlargement of lymph glands on the neck, armpits and groin, a whitish coating on the tongue and night sweats.

The third stage, being the most severe is HIV AIDS. The damage to the immune system is so severe that many life threatening diseases appear with their own symptoms.

Judith warns that a casual display of any of these symptoms usually means nothing unless they are persistent.

Anyone who has ever enjoyed the sights, sounds and smells of a walk in the forest, looked at signs determining the next day's weather or cooked hot dogs over a campfire knows the enjoyment of outdoor activities. These are just a few of the activities you will remember by joining the fall 4-H project "Encounter the Outdoors".

Twenty-eight leaders have completed a workshop at the H.R. Frink Centre introducing them to the activities of this project and are set to begin 4-H clubs in their respective localities across Hastings County.

The 4-H Leaders are looking for youths 12 to 21 years of age as of July 1, 1988, to participate in this program. Members will be required to attend six meetings, complete a record book and attend an Achievement Program which will take the form of an outing with a neighbouring 4-H Club.

For more information on "Encounter the Outdoors" and the locations of the 4-H clubs, contact Elizabeth O'Gorman, Rural Organization Specialist, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, Stirling (395-3393).

Exotic invader could disrupt Great Lakes fishery

The Ministry of Natural Resources is alerting Ontario anglers and commercial fishermen to be on the lookout for a fugitive fish poised to infiltrate the Great Lakes.

The river ruffe (Gymnocephalus cernuus)—a.k.a. "the yellow perch that don't look right"—is already lurking on the American side of Lake Superior and soon may move into Ontario waters, says MNR Great Lakes fisheries coordinator Doug Dodge.

The exotic fish has slipped into the lake from its native northern Europe, "probably by stowing away in the ballast water of ocean-going ships," says Dodge. It has little commercial value because of its small size and slow growth, the same reasons why anglers consider it poor sport.

The fish resembles a small yellow perch, except for its larger dorsal fin (the spiny rayed fin on the fish's back) and spots along its body instead of bars. Its body is slimmer than a perch's and adults rarely exceed 20 centimetres in length.

But the river ruffe, a prolific breeder that preys heavily on whitefish eggs, could severely disrupt the $5 to $10-million whitefish industry in Lakes Superior, Huron and Michigan. Vagabond ruffe could also outcompete yellow perch in Lake Erie, a commercial fishery worth between $20-$30-million a year.

And because river ruffe also feed on young trout and salmon, the exotic invader may adversely affect Ontario's sport fishery.

According to Dodge, "An exotic species can damage native fisheries by disrupting a natural ecosystem through predation, competition, disease or interbreeding with native stocks."

The ministry is asking sport and commercial fishermen along the shipping lanes—particularly in the upper Great Lakes, where shipping activity is heavy—to report any catches of suspected river ruffe to the nearest MNR district office.

To date, no river ruffe have been found in Ontario waters. In May, MNR staff scoured Thunder Bay harbor using gill nets and an electro-fishing boat but came up empty-handed.

In 1987, a Minnesota biologist reported that 33 river ruffe had been caught in the mouth of the St. Louis River. Subsequent investigations showed several generations were present in the harbor at Duluth, Minnesota. Wisconsin and Minnesota biologists believe the fish has now begun to establish itself in the area.

This spring, some 1,500 river ruffe were caught in Duluth harbor during surveys conducted by U.S. fisheries agencies to assess the size and distribution of the species in the area. Recent reports show the ruffe has moved about 160 kilometres past Duluth. The U.S. agencies are continuing their assessment over the summer and will develop a ruffe management and control program after their data are analysed this fall.

Invading river ruffe can devastate a fishery. Ruffe that got into Loch Lomond, Scotland, after being used as bait for pike took only four years to become the loch's most abundant perch species, almost wiping out the native perch population in the process. Fisheries experts in the Soviet Union believe that their whitefish populations would be doubled if the river ruffe was not present.

The river ruffe probably reached North America inside ocean-going vessels that pick up fresh water as ballast in Europe for stability during the crossing, then discharge the water—about 22 million litres per ship—during loading at docks in Lake Superior. Approximately 300 ships a year dump their ballast water into the lake.

The Canadian and U.S. Coast Guards addressed the problem of introducing ballast water contaminated with exotic species at a meeting July 26-27 in Cleveland, Ohio. Experts favor regulations that would require ocean-going vessels to exchange their fresh water ballast for sea water before entering the Great Lakes. Very few open-ocean organisms would survive in the lakes or other coastal waters.

Others have suggested requiring ocean-going vessels to chlorinate their ballast water to eliminate favorable conditions within a ship's holding tanks.

Exotic species introduced through ballast water have created some problems in Ontario waters. The cladoceran "water flea" (Bythotrephes cederstroemi) fouls downriggers and anchor lines in the Great Lakes and competes with small fish for food. The zebra mussel (Dreissena polymorpha), recently found in Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair, is considered a pest because it attaches itself to water intakes.

Other exotics that most likely reached the Great Lakes in ballast water include the Asiatic clam, the European flounder, the Chinese mitten crab and a half-dozen varieties of marine algae. For more information: Doug Dodge Fisheries Branch, Toronto, (416) 965-7887

Martial Arts News

As far as martial arts goes, our local area could be referred to as a "little China." It's been fifteen years now since the first "chudan tsuki" (mid-level punch) was thrown under the guidance of an instructor here in Madoc. Since then, classes, clubs, clinics, tournaments and the like have sprouted up, representing a wide range of martial arts activity. Four year old "Mighty Mites" to retired grand-parents have wrapped belts around themselves and practised what people across the globe have been practising for centuries.

Classes are starting up this Fall again and September is registration month. For the second year, youngsters at Madoc Twp. School will practise the discipline of Karate as part of the noon-hour activities, in fact two youngsters from that school, Tabatha Carr and Stephen Garrow, are currently into review for the Orange Belt in Karate and in Jiu Jitsu.

The CHSS Dojos will also be open on Monday nights with a full range of activities starting at 6:00 and the special children's class and going on to the adult's class at 7:00. Tweed also has a number of children's and adult classes scheduled.

The programme is actually part of a system involving the study of 5 martial arts - Karate, Jiu Jitsu, Lost Track Kung Fu, Ying Yee Kung Fu and Tai Chi. Promotion from level to level is done by testing. An over-all attitude is stressed: respect for elders, respect for law and community, respect for property, courtesy, self-reliance, self-confidence and leadership.

In addition, "Street-Proofing" concepts are taught in the children's classes. Children learn how to deal with situations where a potential threat may arise. Last year, children were given "Karate Kids Don't Do Drugs" buttons which were funded by CFB Trenton's Military Police and also took part in a day-long demonstration at Quinte Mall in conjunction with drug and alcohol abuse rehabilitation groups. In one of the classes, military police brought in a "drug sniffing dog" and kids had a chance first hand to see a highly-trained drug buster go into action.

Children also receive report cards to let parents know of a child's progress and areas of strengths and weaknesses. Once a child reaches Yellow Belt, he or she becomes part of a Leadership Course. Badges are awarded for leadership skills.

All courses are sanctioned by major international martial arts associations and certificates are awarded for each new belt level attained.

Plans are now being made to hold a martial arts display at the Madoc Fair. Planned so far: full contact Karate; brick and block breaking; Chinese weapons; children's self defence; Japanese weapons; Tai Chi exercise and self defence.

There's a lot happening in local martial arts. Come out and be part of the fun. For more information, call 473-4366.

BECOMING CONSISTENT

Are you wondering how to maintain a consistent Christian life? Maybe, the advice of an elderly Scotch woman will help you.

When asked, "What do you do during the day?" she replied, "Well, I get my hymnbook and sing. Then I get the Bible and let the Lord speak to me. When I get tired of reading and cannot sing anymore, I just sit still and let the Lord love me!"

Singing God's praises, drenching yourselves with His word, and snuggling in God's love is good advice if you want to live a consistent Christian life. However, as much as I like the advice this Scotch lady gave, I like the advice that a Christian man gave to Billy Sunday.

Upon Billy Sunday's conversion, a Christian man put his arm around the young man's shoulder and said, "William, there are three simple rules I can give you, and if you will hold to them, you will never write 'backslider' after your name."

"Take fifteen minutes each day to listen to God talking to you; take fifteen minutes each day to talk to God; take fifteen minutes each day to talk to others about God."

Billy Sunday was so impressed by what this gentle Christian man had shared, that he decided to make them the rules of his life. Each day Billy faithfully kept these three commitments.

Perhaps, what I appreciate more about the second story than the first, was the ingredient of sharing your faith. Consistency in your Christian life will be a result of a faithful devotional life. Yet, consistency is also fostered when we give our faith away.

In giving away your faith, you experience the boomerang effect. Give it away and it comes back. Usually, it comes back in greater measure, thus it serves to fortify our lives. We become stronger as we share with others our life with God.

If you eat and eat without exercising, you gain a problem. A sponge is only useful when it is wrung dry. Only then, can a sponge perform its intended task.

MPP Jim Pollock and his wife Jean, Hastings Warden John Irwin and his wife Mabelle and Huntingdon Township Reeve Glen Franks and his wife Donna, were among the dignitaries attending the dedication ceremonies.

Building of the dining room began in January 1987 and was completed a few days before it's dedication. The dining room was raised solely on donations received from the congregation.

When describing the Standard Church religion, Rev. Martin says that it's "background is Methodist, the same as the United Church."

Weymark's Grand Opening

It was a beautiful day for a grand opening, the stage had been set for the Weymark Grand Opening on Saturday, August 27, after months of hard work and numerous trips to Town Council. Finally the big day arrived and so did Peterborough MP, Bill Domm for the ribbon cutting ceremony.

The ribbon cutting ceremony took place at 12:00 noon, and then the doors were opened to the public. Once inside you were treated with warm greetings from the Weymarks and staff, and a showroom full of new and beautiful merchandise.

The Weymarks have come a long way in just four short years. Dennis Weymark was born in and has been a lifelong resident of Havelock. He worked in construction as a carpenter for many years. He then got into fine and more detailed work as he refined and perfected his skills. He then decided to open a business for kitchen cabinets and accessories. Four years ago they opened Weymark's Kitchens and Baths on George Street in Havelock. Now they are into complete renovations and the designing of kitchens and bathrooms, as well as wallpaper, carpets, ceramic tile, bathroom fixtures, spas, whirlpools, unfinished doors, unfinished cabinet doors, custom trim and much, much more.

It had come to the time that they needed to expand. They looked around and came up with a vacant building around the corner known as the Old Allen's Grocery Store. The building has been redesigned inside and out. On the inside there are areas for individual displays as seen in some of the high class establishments in Toronto.

All in all it was a grand day for the Weymarks you might say and I am sure everybody wishes them all the best in the years to come.

Car draw tickets still available

by Brian Carruthers
 The Warkworth Agricultural Fair is fast approaching and the preparations are coming to a head.
 There are still some car draw tickets available. If you wish to purchase one call Grace Dollimore at 924-2074.

There will be a show and shine contest for transport trucks. They will also be in the parade and then be judged. As well there is the talent contest, a tractor pull and games for young and old alike.

 This is all in addition to the gigantic Parade, the light and heavy horse shows, the pony pull, the baby show, the holstein show and a bingo.
 The Homecraft division, which includes the school work displays, has been expanded. This is in particular true of the junior school work display.
 For more information on any of the above call Arlene Lowe at 924-2648.

Jake and Sandra Radford of RR 2, Campbellford, recently lost their youngest son to a form of children's cancer called Neuroblastoma.

This family is not happy to put in the past what has happened to them. They want to do something about it!

A yard sale is being held at their residence on the long Labour Day Weekend in September to raise money for research in Canada into this terminal disease.

"There is no systematic research in Canada. There never was for Neuroblastoma and it's about time there was," says Sandra. "We have advertised for donations and so far, the response has been good, but every little bit helps," stated Jake Radford.

The Radfords will be accepting donations right up to the last day of the sale. Sandra states, "It's going to be a busy, hectic weekend, we hope!"

Please call Sandra or Jake at 653-1435 or 653-2922. Thank you.

QUESTIONS

A couple of questions more frequently asked are:

Q. What about the Canadian Cancer Society?

A. When you donate to the cancer society, there are no guarantees your money will be used for a specific disease.

Q. It's only 50 or 60 kids, right?

A. Yes, each year. Think about this: a man gets lost in the northern forests or in the ocean. We spend thousands of dollars to send helicopters, rescue boats, etc. to save him. Why not 50 or 60 children?

Q. What is Neuroblastoma?

A. Neuroblastoma is a word that may be unfamiliar to most of you. However, to parents and families of 60 children in Canada, each year, the word generates fear and uncertainty.

Neuroblastoma is a cancer. More specifically, it is a cancer of the nervous system that is unique to children, particularly those under the age of four.

Of the cancers associated with childhood, neuroblastoma is second to lymphocytic leukemia in occurrence. The key difference is that leukemia has a high survival rate - in excess of 60%. With Neuroblastoma most of the children die.

Unfortunately, Neuroblastoma has received little attention, compared to other cancers. In fact, there has been little progress in the past 20 years - survival rates have remained extremely low.

This Foundation is the only hope to start research into curing this traumatic disease.

MOTHER'S POEM

by Sandra Lee Radford

God made your eyes from stars so bright
To shine all day and sleep all night

He made your nose from a button on His shirt
To smell the flowers and be covered in dirt

He made your lips from a rose so pink
To speak your mind and to be kissed - I think

God made you from things from above
But most of all, He made you from love.

DIAL A HEARING SCREENING TEST

Just the other day, someone requested the hearing test's phone numbers that I had in my column last October 7th, 1987.

Okay Jack! Here it is. Good luck.

The Scarborough General Hospital's "Dial a Hearing Screening Test", in its first six months of use, the first of its kind in Canada, has had about 100 calls a day, for a total of nearly 18,000 calls.

By dialing 1-416-870-7706 you can take the free, simple 30-second test which is available seven days a week, 24 hours a day.

A taped message instructs the caller to put the phone firmly against his or her ear. The voice then tells the caller to listen to four tones, at differing pitches in each ear. If the caller has not heard all eight of the tones then she or he has failed the test.

They go first to their family doctor. If they are worried about their hearing. The test is not diagnostic and many factors could contribute to a failed test, such as a bad phone connection or loud and distracting noises.

The service is provided by contract to the hospital by the Occupational Hearing Service, an American company based near Philadelphia.

HINTS:

News and Views

by D.F. Young Agricultural Representative

Drought conditions during the summer of 1988 have had an impact on the quantity and quality of feed supply available in this area, as well as across most of Ontario.

There is a great deal of variation in yield and quality due to rainfall patterns and soil types.

Yields will be below average over most of the area and, in some cases, there is very little crop. There is a great deal of variability, particularly in the corn crop.

In many cases, growers will be harvesting their corn crop as silage for home feed instead of marketing it off the farm or storing it as feed grain. In other cases, corn silage will be a salvage operation for grain corn which, because of drought conditions, did not pollinate or fill properly.

Where corn is sold as corn silage it often is difficult to arrive at an equitable dollar value. Unfortunately, silage does not trade enough on the open market so that any price pattern is established.

Price considerations often include availability of storage, as well as moisture content and feed value.

Research has indicated that seemingly immature corn taken off as corn silage, may contain as many nutrients as more mature corn but that the nutrients are located in the stock rather than in the ear.

There are a number of methods to estimate the value for corn silage - none as precise or exact as for dried corn. While silage yields vary, they will normally be in the range of 12 to 16 tonnes per acre. Undoubtedly some will be less this year because of drought conditions.

One method is to relate the price of corn silage to dried corn by estimating the number of bushels of dry corn required to make a ton of silage at 35% to 40% dry matter.

A rule of thumb that is often used is that one ton of corn silage contains approximately six bushels of grain corn under normal circumstances. Using this thumb rule, an 80 bushel per acre corn crop will yield approximately 13-12 tons of corn silage, while a 70 bushel corn crop would yield the approximate equivalent of 11-12 tons of silage.

If we assume that grain corn is worth $3.60 per bushel and that six bushels will equal one ton of corn silage, silage should have an equivalent value of $21.60 per tonne or $248 per acre for a 70-bushel equivalent corn crop. An 80-bushel crop would be worth $288 per acre.

This approach has some obvious flaws. First, it does not leave any value for extra forage in the form of clover harvested when corn silage is cut. In practice, this extra value is often forgotten in arriving at an acceptable price.

This price is also based on harvested delivered corn; therefore, an adjustment would have to be made for harvesting, which could be in the range of $4 to $6 per ton.

Another simpler approach, which is sometimes used, is to compare corn silage with hay, strictly on a moisture basis. The thumb rule often used is that corn silage has a value of approximately one-third that of good hay.

In other words, if hay is worth $60 per tonne in the barn, corn silage would have an approximate value of $20 per tonne.

SILAGE GAS HAZARD

Most farmers are aware that silage gas can kill. Even with this knowledge, some will be taking unnecessary chances this fall in the silage making process.

The attitude that "it has never happened to me in the past" probably stems from the fact that conditions have to be right for the production of these poisonous gases.

Unfortunately, these conditions are not well understood.

We know that the gases are formed as a result of the oxidation process in the formation of corn silage and appear to be dependent to some degree at least on weather conditions, fertility programs, etc.

We note, too, that the nitrogen dioxide portion is a yellow-brown gas having a bleach like odor. However, it is often in combination with carbon dioxide which is colorless, odorless and undetectable. These gases are heavier than air and tend to congregate in low lying areas such as silo chutes, feed rooms, and on the silage later in the silo.

Drought conditions, which have existed across Ontario this year, may be conducive to high nitrate levels in the corn plant and, therefore, extra precautions should be taken.

If one must enter the silo, some sort of oxygen system is advised. If entry must be made, do so immediately after silo filling, when the blower is running and has had some time to remove the air out. Always assume gas is present - don't gamble with your life!

At the Board of Directors meeting of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, in Toronto, we have a time set aside for what we call "Bricks and Bouquets".

This is a time when anyone can criticize constructively or hand out appreciations for things that have taken place. In this tradition, I am going to take leave to express some of both.

Bricks first. It was brought to my attention recently that a person or persons unknown had removed ties from the railroad trestle at Moira Lake. If this act was committed to prevent motorized vehicles from utilizing the right-of-way, then may I call your attention to the following. This is still Railroad property and you can be prosecuted by them for destruction.

Secondly, two young people very nearly upset and could very easily have been going at a greater rate of speed and somersaulted when the front end dropped in the hole. As a result, they could have been permanently injured, killed or at least, sustained minor hurts.

Here, again, may I say that the person perpetrating such a trap could be held liable. I am positive that if serious injury had resulted, then the culprit would have been apprehended. Further to this, I personally feel that anyone so intent on getting their own way as to put human life and limb at stake is sick.

Bouquets to Don Smith and Ted Hailstone who, upon learning of this situation, took time and effort to fish the ties from the lake and to replace them. Not only do these gentlemen deserve credit for this one act but many times as I pass through the area, they are engaged in some chore around the area to make life a little more pleasant for the users of Moira Lake.

Maybe, when consideration is being given to selecting citizens of the year, these names will be remembered.

We will certainly pray that this was a thoughtless incident and give thanks to those who rectified it.

No matter what the area abandoned railroads, these rules apply: it takes knowledge, effort, brains and commitment to create; a fool can destroy.

In all the distribution areas of Cembal Publications, one can look about and find persons like Don and Ted, who care and give unselfishly their time. We should all take at least the time to say "Thank you".

Taking the guess work out of hockey equipment

Toronto - With hockey season soon upon us once again, players and parents are faced with the annual ritual of venturing to the local sports store, frantically sifting through piles of hockey equipment in search of the right models and sizes.

Safety, comfort, versatility and, of course, cost are all important considerations when it comes to hockey equipment. Unfortunately, making the right choice has not always been easy.

For example, there are at least 50 different shin guards on the Canadian market. They come in a broad range of styles and sizes. Add to this, the general disarray in which hockey equipment is usually displayed in stores, and it is clear that consumers often find themselves in the penalty box when it comes to buying hockey equipment.

To help solve this problem, one manufacturer has decided to make the selection process easier. For the upcoming season, Cooper Canada is introducing a new packaging and display system which incorporates an easy-to-use selection process.

For the first time, all hockey equipment will be packaged in neat, clearly labeled boxes, eliminating the old polybags and header cards. Anyone walking into a store, regardless of his or her level of knowledge, will now be able to follow a few basic steps to select the most suitable hockey equipment products.

The system runs on the premise that hockey equipment must be carefully selected to match the player's size and level of play.

With this in mind, Cooper's new system uses a simple three-step selection process.

First, the buyer measures himself or his youngster by following the clear instructions on each Cooper hockey equipment box. Then, using the level of play categories, he determines which model is most appropriate.

All Cooper hockey equipment is categorized into five playing levels: Super Pro, Pro, Senior, Junior Pro, and Junior. Again, each hockey equipment box is labeled with one of these categories.

Finally, the buyer selects the piece of equipment packaged in a box displaying the appropriate sizing color code and playing level category. Following these steps, the customer is virtually assured of selecting the most suitable piece of equipment.

House fires

by Nigel Bunce and Jim Hunt
College of Physical Science
University of Guelph

All too often the papers report tragic fires where lives were lost. Frequently, the pictures show relatively intact buildings where people died. Why were the occupants unable to escape to safety when the house or apartment building was relatively undamaged?

A recent article in "New Scientist" reports on research into house fires. When you burn rubbish like leaves outside, the flames gradually engulf the material and the heat escapes into the atmosphere. Nina Hall, author of the article, describes this as a friendly fire, because it spreads gradually.

House fires, on the other hand, are extremely unfriendly. The hot gases do not escape into the atmosphere, but are trapped inside the house. Within about a minute of a fire starting, a layer of hot gases is trapped under the ceiling.

As the layer becomes thicker and hotter, it acts like a space heater, radiating its heat back into the room. As beds, chest-drawers and other furniture become heated, the fire flashes from its source to everything in the room. By the time this process takes place - in as little as three minutes - the people in the room are dead.

Often fire fighters or neighbors are overcome fighting the fire. Sometimes people die when they go back to retrieve possessions, not realizing a fire can be out of control in less time than it takes to fill a bucket of water at the kitchen sink.

The radiating heat effect does not only occur in completely enclosed buildings. Fifty-six people died in a football stadium fire in Bradford, England, in 1985, when the whole structure erupted in flames. Like the ceiling of a room in a house, the roof of the stadium trapped the heat and smoke, and radiated heat back into the stadium, causing rapid flashover.

House fires are made worse because many household furnishings emit toxic gases when heated. Even if the occupants are not sleeping, the colorless, odorless carbon monoxide formed when incomplete combustion takes place makes them drowsy.

Synthetic materials such as foam cushions can release extremely toxic gases when they burn, including the very poisonous material, hydrogen cyanide. The gases spread quickly through the house, putting the inhabitants at risk before they are in danger from the fire itself.

Researchers continue to seek safe, comfortable materials for furniture, but the problem is a difficult one as the safer materials tend to be too hard for comfort.

It is interesting to note that wood construction is not usually a factor in fatalities from fires. The rapid spread of fire, the problem of flashback and the danger of poisonous gases all come into play long before the actual structure is destroyed.

In fact, the fire department may be able to save the structure, but they are often too late to save the occupants. Smoke detectors remain the best method of sensing a fire while there is still time to escape.

We welcome questions and ideas for future columns. Write to the authors, c/o the dean's office, College of Physical Science, University of Guelph, Guelph, Ontario N1G 2W1.

The drunken riot of early morning spring birdsong is largely over now. Birds have settled down to the sobering job of raising families. As in human families, until the young are more or less able to look after themselves, this is a time of heavy stress for the parents.

Some young birds spring immediately into the "terrible twos". The young of waterfowl and shorebirds, for instance, are born like chickens, covered with down, eyes wide open, able to move like greased lightning almost as soon as they hatch.

These birds which can feed themselves at once are called precocial.

The young of songbirds, like the Oriole and Robin are altricial. They are born naked and with eyes closed, unable to stand, and their only reflex initially is the beak gaping for food.

At this time of year, when the young are hatched and growing fast, people often get involved with what they believe is an abandoned nestling. That young Mourning Dove huddled and forlorn-looking has probably not been abandoned. Stay well away and watch.

One parent will likely arrive soon with an offering. No nest can accommodate indefinitely several rapidly growing active young birds. Sooner or later nestlings will be forced out of the nest.

However, parents will continue to care for the young even out of the nest. In the case of very young birds falling out of the nest as a result of some disaster, you may be able to replace them in the nest. It is not true that the parent will reject the youngster if it has been handled.

One bird whose offspring are often the victims of misdirected concern is the Killdeer. The Killdeer nests on the ground. Any hollow in a field or gravel patch will do. Its young are precocial.

Little miniatures of the adults, except that they have only one black band across the hockey equipment

The new system means that customers will no longer have to shuffle through piles of poorly organized merchandise, randomly trying on equipment. The system is tidy and efficient.

All information is clearly outlined on every box and most stores carrying Cooper equipment, will have specially built "Cooper Sports Centres" which will neatly display all the products and a sizing chart.

Chris Clark, Vice President of Marketing for Cooper Canada, says the new merchandising system was developed as a result of consumer demand for more information.

"Our research clearly indicates that consumers are frustrated when it comes to buying hockey equipment," said Clark. "We found they are especially concerned with proper sizing and matching of equipment to level of play. This new system is carefully designed to meet the specific needs of hockey equipment buyers and make it easier for them to make the right selection."

Self-sufficient chest, these tiny balls of mobile fluff are active within an hour of hatching. To survive infancy they will depend on their ability to blend into the ground by freezing when they hear the adult's alarm call.

The adult will attempt to lead interlopers away with the old broken wing act. If an adult directs this behaviour at you, there are probably young very close to your feet.

Never pick up one of these chicks, thinking it has been abandoned. It's been learning the art of survival since it was an hour old. No matter how cute they are, leave them alone. Unlike altricial birds' their beaks don't gape for food, and it is quite difficult to get them to eat.

If you are forced to play foster parents to young birds which long observation has convinced you are definitely orphaned, you should consider the difficulties and the responsibility before taking on the job of raising them. Are you really up to it?

Young birds need food about every 15 minutes, and they also need to be kept warm. If the bird is not feathered you will need to provide a source of warmth. An old shoebox lined with tissue will provide a home and a light bulb suspended over this nest, heat.

Young birds need a temperature of around 20 degrees centigrade. The parents spend a good deal of time when the young first hatch brooding them to regulate temperature.

This week, a nighthawk nesting on a flat roof in downtown

Toronto has been protecting her newly hatched young from the broiling sun, determinedly ignoring the electrical cable work going on very carefully a few feet away. Can you provide this sort of care?

You will also be in charge of providing as nourishing a diet as parents provide by regurgitating a highly nutritious diet of insects. You won't be expected to do this, and a suggested alternative formula consists of a mixture of water, milk, egg yolks, pabulum and infant vitamin drops.

Steam the egg yolks gently with a little water and milk to make the kind of custard, then thicken with a little pabulum. Keep your mixture thin enough to pass through an eye dropper.

Humans tend to intervene in other creature's lives without really understanding much about them. A little observation and reading about the habits of birds would prevent unwarranted human interference in the raising of nestlings.

Raising young birds is a demanding and time-consuming business which is only finished when you have succeeded in returning them to the wild.

If circumstances force you to try a hand at rearing an orphan and you need further advice, you might contact the Toronto Humane Society (416) 392-2273. In eastern Ontario contact the Avian Care and Research Foundation (613) 374-2923, and in western Ontario Erie Wildlife Rescue at (519) 736-3578.

MEMORIALS
CROSS, Margaret - In loving memory of a dear daughter, sister and niece, who passed away August 24, 1984. The depths of sorrow we cannot tell. Of the loss of one we loved so well. And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep. Her memory we shall always keep. Missed by Dad, Sisters and nieces and nephews.

HAMILTON - In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Alex Hamilton, who passed away on August 29, 1982. We cannot have the old times back. When we were all together. But silent tears and loving thoughts. Will stay with us forever. The tears in our eyes do not glisten. And our faces are not always sad. But there's never a night or a morning. But we think of the loved one we had. Not a day do we ever forget you. In our hearts you are always there. For we love you and we still miss you. As time passes, year after year. Lovingly remembered by his wife, Ruby, children and grandchildren.

HAMILTON - In memory of our grandpa, Alex Hamilton, who passed away on August 29, 1982. He is very well missed and loved by us all. We both shared great times with grandpa. Let the Lord be with him all the way. Sadly missed and always remembered by grandsons, Shawn and Randy Edwards.

MARTIN, Leonard (Jack) - In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, who passed away September 4, 1980. His weary hours and days of pain. His troubled nights are past. In our aching hearts we know. He has found sweet rest at last. Sadly missed by wife Georgina (Jean) and Family.

SWEET, Bernard - In loving memory of my dear husband, Bernard Sweet, who passed away August 27, 1986. The world changes year to year and friends from day to day. But never will the one I love from memory pass away. Sadly missed by wife Lorraine and the family.

Farm product transportation improved

Toronto - Cantaloupes and buckwheat could be good sources of income for Ontario farmers searching for alternative crops, according to a study conducted for the Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

"The study shows that there is potential for expansion in several areas," said Arthur Loughton, manager of the ministry's Transition Crop Team (TCT). The TCT was established in 1986 to work with farmers and farm groups to identify and support new crops with the potential to be produced profitably in Ontario.

The latest study, done by Stevenson Kellogg Ernst and Whinney, looks at the potential for seven crops: buckwheat, melons, sweet white lupins, pumpkins, squash, birdfeed ingredients and flowers, both field-grown and fresh-cut, as well as bulbs and dried flowers.

The report, entitled "Windows of Market Opportunity for Selected Ontario-Grown Transition Crops", shows that cantaloupes are becoming an increasingly popular item with Ontario consumers.

During the summer, Ontarians consume 13 times as many imported melons as domestic. If quality, packaging and pre-cooling to prolong shelf-life are emphasized, an increase of over $15-million a year might be achieved by replacing imports during our production season, the report says.

There is a good export market for large-seed buckwheat. Japan alone imports nearly 200-million pounds a year. Europe another 45-million. A high-quality crop and developed of an export-oriented marketing organization for large-seeded varieties could bring Ontario farmers over $2-million a year in additional production.

Experimentation with the use of lupins for bread and pasta products has created a demand for the product. A big increase in Ontario lupin production could help meet this demand.

Another potential opportunity exists for lupins as an alternative to soybeans as livestock feed, particularly in areas where soybeans cannot be grown because of the climate.

According to the report, if Ontario producers of squash can compete with foreign suppliers, they have the opportunity to sell up another $10-million dollars worth of squash in the fresh market, through import substitution.

Small increases in the volume of pumpkins produced could be achieved by increasing supplies to Northern Ontario, the report says. The flower bulb and dried flower market appears to offer more opportunities than field-grown, fresh-cut flowers. Ontario imports over $10-million of bulbs each year. Taking over just half that market could put $5-million in the pockets of Ontario farmers.

However, two obstacles exist: the image and reputation of Dutch bulbs have to be contended with and the technology for field producing bulbs in Ontario must be approved.

Loughton stressed, "We can only take advantage of those opportunities that do exist if the Ontario-grown produce is competitive in price, quality and distribution." He cautioned that farmers who want to switch crops for more profitably must first determine whether there is a market for that particular product.

IS YOUR PROPANE REFRIGERATOR A POTENTIAL KILLER?

Nobody in their right mind would keep a life-threatening appliance in their home. Yet, thousands of people have propane refrigerators that can produce deadly amounts of carbon monoxide if they're not properly vented and cleaned.

Every year in Ontario an average of three fatalities result from the use of unserviced propane refrigerators. Several more people require hospitalization for carbon monoxide poisoning.

To eliminate the risk, remove your propane refrigerator to an outdoor shelter or buy a new refrigerator, which is now required to be vented outdoors, like those used in recreational vehicles and mobile homes.

We also advise you to have the refrigerator cleaned and serviced regularly, especially before start up and every time it's moved. That way, rust, scale, insects or anything that's blocking the combustion system will be removed.

For answers to your questions or to obtain a do-it-yourself booklet on servicing, call the Fuels Safety Branch at (416) 234-6046, or write:
